PREFACE

ESSENTIAL ENGLISH is a course in four books, of which this is the first, for the teaching of English to adult foreign students. It aims at giving the student a sound knowledge of the essentials of both spoken and written English and taking him well on the way to a mastery of idiomatic conversational and literary English.

The normal constructions and sentence patterns of English are introduced gradually and systematically, and are well drilled at every stage. The learner is guided through "essential" grammar in the simplest possible manner, and every new construction is explained and illustrated as soon as it is used.

The restricted vocabulary within which the four books are written has been based on A General Service List of English Words.¹ But neither this list, nor any other list, has been followed slavishly and blindly; the vocabulary and the grammar and the structures taught have been tested constantly by the experience gained during some thirty years of teaching English to foreign students or writing text-books for them.

'Because I believe that a knowledge of the spoken tongue is the true basis of language learning, much of this book is in "conversational" form; and my constant endeavour has been to ensure that, despite the restrictions that a limited vocabulary naturally imposes, every sentence in these conversations is expressed in the living, colloquial idiom that an educated Englishman would use.

And, since the most effective spur to learning a language (or anything else) is interest, every effort has been made to cover the linguistic pill with the jam of gaiety. So, as soon as the preliminaries are mastered, the reader is introduced to Mr. Priestley, his household and his group of students. We see them here and in subsequent books chatting together, telling jokes, reading stories that they have written, singing songs or acting short plays. It is on these conversations and stories and the "talks by Mr. Priestley" that the language teaching is based, and from them that the copious exercises by which the teacher is enabled to test how far the work has been understood, are drawn.

Fundamentally, this new edition of ESSENTIAL ENGLISH is the same as the old one, but there are one or two changes. Some extra material has been added; the Future Tense has been treated rather more fully; comparison of adjectives, which originally was delayed until Book II, is now treated here in Lessons 20-22; Lesson 11 has been expanded; there are two new "Stories without words" (page 155 and 166); the sections on sentence construction have been deferred to a later book and an index has been added.

In the Teacher's handbook¹ that has been prepared to accompany this volume the general principles and the main techniques of language teaching are discussed, detailed suggestions and practical hints are given on the teaching of each lesson, and a complete Key to the Exercises is provided.

Though a text-book that is the ideal one to every teacher and student is, perhaps, an impossibility, it is hoped that most students and teachers will feel that this new edition is an improvement on the old one, but the author will be most grateful at any time for further criticisms and suggestions that will help to make ESSENTIAL ENGLISH more useful to those who study it or teach from it.

LESSON 6 (Sixth Lesson) The Farm

Now look at the picture on page 43. It is a picture of a farm. The farm is in the country; it is not in the town. It is a warm day; it is not a cold day. The sun is in the sky. There are some white clouds but they are small and the sky is very blue. There is a mountain on the right of the picture, and not far from the mountain there is a river. There are a few boys in the picture. All the boys are in the river except one. He is on the green grass. There are one or two big trees and some small trees in the picture. The small trees are apple-trees. They are on the left of the picture. There are red apples on the apple-trees. These apple-trees are in the garden of the farm-house. There are a lot of apples on the trees. There are flowers round the door and windows of the farm-house. There are a lot of animals on this farm. There are horses in the field near the river. One of the horses is black, the others are brown. In the next field there are some sheep; in the next one there are some pigs; and near to the pigs there are some cows. Some of the cows are brown, others are black and white. All the sheep are white except one. It is black. There is a horse and cart in the picture. There are cabbages and potatoes in the cart. There is a field of yellow corn behind the farm-house.

A man is digging in the garden. There are some cabbages in the garden. The man near the gate is the farmer. There is a dog behind the farmer; that is the farmer's dog. There is a woman near the door of the farm-house; that is the farmer's wife. The farmer's wife is feeding the chickens.

The Simple Present TenseThe verb to speak*

First Person:	I speak English.	we speak English.
Second Person:	you speak English.	you speak English.
Third Person:	he, she speaks English.	they speak English.

The verb to do

I do the work.	we do the work.
you do the work.	you do the work.
he, she, it does the work.	they do the work.

boy, girl, book, Mary, London, horses, etc., are NOUNS.

Nouns are the names of persons or things.

I, you, he, she, it, we, they, etc., are PRONOUNS.

Pronouns take the place of nouns, e.g.

The boy comes to the class or He comes to the class.

The girl is in the classroom or She is in the classroom.

The horses are in the field or They are in the field.

Pronunciation: ¹ ['ti:tʃɪz], ² [gəʊz], ³ [dəz].

The pronouns I, he, she, it, you, we, they, have another form: my, his, her, its, your, our, their.

This is called the Possessive form.¹

I speak French; my language is French.

you speak English; your language is English.

he speaks Spanish; his language is Spanish.

she speaks Norwegian; her language is Norwegian.

Where is the dog? It is in its bed under the table.

we speak Greek; our language is Greek.

they speak Turkish; their language is Turkish.

(The Pronunciation Drill for this lesson is on page 60.)

EXERCISES

 his, she, their, come, do, her, count, country, Italy, we, teach, I, answer, look, you.

Noun	Verb	Pronoun	Possessive

IV. Write the simple present tenses of the verbs: to do, to go, to come, to teach.

Dictation

Some people come from one country, some from another. People speak the language of their country. Welsh people come from Wales and they speak Welsh. Dutch people come from Holland; they speak Dutch. The people of the Argentine and those of Peru both speak Spanish. The people of France speak their language there. Hans comes from Denmark. He speaks Danish, Swedish and Norwegian too. He speaks Danish and two other languages.

LESSON 8 (Eighth Lesson)

The Present Continuous Tense

This is a hotel in England, at the seaside.
The people in the picture are staying at the hotel.
There are some waiters in the picture.
The waiters are standing. The men and women are sitting at the tables.

It is a fine day. It isn't raining. The sun is shining.
One woman is eating an ice.
There are some cups and saucers on the tables.
Some of the men are drinking coffee.
One of the women is drinking a cup of tea.
One of the men is smoking a cigarette.
The waiters are not smoking cigarettes. They are not drinking tea or coffee.
Is that man eating an ice? No, he isn't.

Is that woman smoking a cigarette? No, she isn't.
Are the waiters smoking cigarettes? No, they aren't.
Are the waiters drinking tea or coffee? No, they aren't.

One of the boys is walking to the sands.
One of the women is speaking to the waiter.
One of the men is reading a newspaper.

The children are playing on the yellow sand.
A dog is under the table. Is it eating or drinking?
No, it isn't eating or drinking.
What is it doing? It is sleeping.
What are the children doing? They are playing on the sands.
Some birds are flying over the sea.

GRAMMAR

Many of the verbs in this lesson are in the Present Continuous Tense.

e.g. He is drinking; she is eating; they are staying; the dog is sleeping; birds are flying; the children are playing; is it eating? are the waiters eating? the waiters are not smoking, etc.

Here is the Present Continuous Tense of the verb to eat.

Affirmative

I am eating.
You are eating.
He, she, it is eating.
We, you, they are eating.

Negative

I am not eating.
You are not eating.
He, she, it is not eating.
We, you, they are not eating.

Interrogative

Am I eating?
 Are you eating?
 Is he, she, it eating?
 Are we, you, they eating?

Note the use¹ of doing (for any action) in questions:

What is the man doing ?	He is reading a newspaper.
What is the dog doing ?	It is sleeping.
What are the children doing ?	They are playing on the sands.

1. Some is often used as a plural of a, e.g.

Singular

Plural

There is a cup on the table.	There are some cups on the table.
There is a waiter in the picture.	There are some waiters in the picture.
A bird is flying over the sea.	Some birds are flying over the sea.

¹ Use is both a noun and a verb. The noun is pronounced [ju:s]; the verb is pronounced [ju:z].

2. Some (generally, but not always, with "of") often means "not all," e.g.

Some of the men are standing; some are sitting.

Some of the people are drinking tea; some are drinking coffee.

Some of the children are playing on the sand; some are looking at the birds.

People is a plural word. We say "people are," never "people is."

Dictation

There are a lot of people staying at the hotel at the seaside. Some of the people are sitting, eating ices, reading newspapers or drinking cups of tea and coffee, and looking at the boys and girls on the sands. It is a fine day and the sun is shining. There is a dog in the picture; it is sleeping under the table.

LESSON 9 (Ninth Lesson)

The Verbs "have" and "can"

PEOPLE IN THE LESSON: Teacher, Mr. A., Mr. B.,
Mr. C., Miss D., Miss E., Miss F.

TEACHER: I have a book; here it is.

Has your friend a book, Miss D.?

MISS D.: Yes, she has one.

TEACHER: Has the student on your left a book,
Mr. B.?

MR. B.: Yes, he has.

TEACHER: Has the student on your right a book,
Mr. C.?

MR. C.: No, he hasn't.¹

TEACHER: Have I a book, Miss E.?

MISS E.: Oh, yes, you have one. I can see it in your hand.

TEACHER: Have you a book, Miss F.?

MISS F.: No, I haven't. I'm sorry.

TEACHER: All right. You can look at the book of the student next to you.

Mr. A. and Mr. B., have you both reading books?

MR. A. and MR. B.: Yes, we have reading books. You can see them on our desks; but we haven't exercise books.

TEACHER: All right. I can give you a piece of paper to write on. Have you an exercise book, Miss F.?

¹ hasn't, haven't, are short forms for has not, have not.

MISS F.: Yes. I haven't a reading book, but I have an exercise book.

TEACHER: Can you read English, Mr. C.?

MR. C.: Yes, I can read English a little, but not very much.

TEACHER: Can you read English, Miss D.?

MISS D.: Yes, I can read English a little, too, but I cannot speak it very well. I pronounce it badly.

MISS E.: I cannot speak English very well. I, too, have a bad pronunciation.

TEACHER: Have you difficulty with the pronunciation, Mr. A.?

MR. A.: No, I have not much difficulty with the pronunciation; I can pronounce English quite well, but I cannot spell it.

MR. B.: What is the meaning of "spell," please?

TEACHER: Mr. C., can you spell "book"?

MR. C.: Oh, yes, b-o-o-k.

TEACHER: That's¹ right. Now, Miss D., can you spell "essential"?

MISS D.: No, I cannot. I'm sorry. My spelling is very bad.

TEACHER: Can you spell "essential," Miss E.?

MISS E.: Yes, I think so. E-S-E-N-T-I-A-L.

TEACHER: No, that is not quite right. What is wrong with her spelling of "essential," Miss F.?

MISS F.: There are two s's in "essential." You cannot spell it with only one s.

TEACHER: That's right, Miss F. Mr. B., can you now understand the meaning of "spell"?

MR. B.: Oh, yes. I understand it very well now.

¹ That's is the short form for that is.

LESSON 10 (Tenth Lesson)

Reading Lesson : "The Seaside"

Here we have another picture of the hotel at the seaside. Mr. and Mrs. Smith and their children, Charles, Henry, Mary and Jane, are staying at the hotel.

The hotel has the words Devon Hotel below the two open windows. Just below the words under the windows there is a black and white striped canvas.

It is a very warm day; the sun is shining brightly. The windows are all open, and people are sitting outside under the canvas and under the big umbrella to get shade from the sun.

Mrs. Smith is wearing a red and white striped dress. All the women are wearing thin dresses because it is a hot day.

One of the boys has a big ball under one arm and a towel under the other. That is Henry Smith. He is running quickly down the steps; he is about half-way down. He is wearing a red bathing suit. The boys can play football on the sand.

Some children are playing on the yellow sand or bathing in the blue water. Charles Smith is swimming to a big, black rock. You can see his arm just coming out of the water. He can swim very well; he is a good swimmer.

There are some other boys and girls in the water but they cannot swim very well; they are swimming badly; they are not good swimmers; they are just learning. They want to learn. A young man is teaching these children to swim. His name is John Priestley. He is a very good swimmer.

Two of the girls have tennis rackets in their hands and are wearing short white dresses. One of the girls is Mary Smith. She plays tennis well; she is a very good player. The other girl is Jane Smith; she can't play very well. Mary is teaching Jane to play tennis. They play tennis on the grass behind the hotel.

A big girl is walking slowly to the sea. She is carrying a book in her hand. She wants to sit down and read her book. She is looking for a place in the shade.

There are three or four little boys and girls on the right of the picture. They are digging in the sand. They have buckets and spades and are looking for shells. They have some shells in their buckets.

A girl is riding a donkey. She is Margaret Priestley. She is the sister of John Priestley. John Priestley is her brother. She rides very well. Her brother is a good rider, too. A little boy is riding a bicycle. He can't ride very well. He is just learning; his father is holding the bicycle. He is teaching his son to ride a bicycle.

The waiters are standing quietly under the canvas near the big window. They are wearing white suits. One of the waiters has a tray in his hand.

Mrs. Smith is looking at the children. She has a book in her hand, but she isn't reading. Mr. Smith has a newspaper, but he isn't reading, he isn't looking at the swimmers, he isn't looking at the riders, he isn't looking at the children. What is he doing? He is sleeping.

GRAMMAR

Adjectives and Adverbs

In these sentences:

1. This is an egg. This is a bad egg.
2. She is wearing a dress. She is wearing a short white dress.
3. The children are playing on the yellow sand or bathing in the blue water.

the words bad, short, white, yellow, blue add to the meaning of nouns egg, dress, sand, water.

The words bad, short, white, yellow, blue are adjectives.

In these sentences:

He is running quickly. They are swimming badly. A big girl is walking slowly.

the words quickly, badly, slowly add to the meaning of the verbs is running, are swimming, is walking.

The words quickly, badly, slowly are adverbs.

Adjectives add to the meaning of nouns.

Adverbs add to the meaning of verbs.

Adverbs are often made by adding -ly to adjectives,
e.g.

bad, badly; slow, slowly; bright, brightly.

But notice the adjective good. Its adverb is well,
e.g.

He is a good swimmer. He swims well.

Mr. A. pronounces English badly. Mr. B. pronounces English well.

Paddy writes badly.

Fred writes well.

Why ? . . . Because . . . Want

Why are the women wearing summer dresses?

Because the day is warm.

Why is the girl walking to the water? Because she wants to bathe.

Why is the man speaking to the waiter? Because he wants a drink.

Why have the girls tennis rackets in their hands?

Because they want to play tennis.

EXERCISES

I. Answer the following questions. Make sentences for your answers:

1. Who are staying at the Devon Hotel?
2. Who are with the boys and girls?
3. Where are the words DEVON HOTEL?
4. What is there just below these words?
5. What kind of a day is it?
6. Where are the people sitting?
7. Why are they sitting under the striped canvas?
8. What kind of dresses are the women wearing?
9. What are the names of Mr. and Mrs. Smith's children?
10. What colour is Mrs. Smith's dress?
11. What is the boy on the steps carrying?
12. What has he under his arm?
13. Where is he on the steps?
14. What is one boy in the water doing?
15. What are other boys and girls doing?
16. Can these boys and girls swim well?
17. Why can't they swim well?
18. What kind of dresses are the girls with the tennis rackets wearing?
19. What is the difference in colour between the canvas and the bathing suit of the boy on the steps?
20. What are some little boys and girls doing?
21. Can some of the boys swim well?
22. What kind of suits are the waiters wearing?
23. Where can the boys play football?
24. Where can the girls play tennis?
25. What has one of the waiters in his hand?
26. Where are the waiters standing?
27. What colour is (a) the sand, (b) the sky, (c) the bathing suit of the boy on the steps?

II. Put in the right word in the following:

1. He swims — (good, well).
2. That is a — apple (well, good).
3. Henry writes — (badly, bad).
4. He speaks English — (good, well).
5. He speaks — English (good, well).

III. What is the difference between “bad” and “badly,” “slow” and “slowly,” “good” and “well”?

Use each word in a sentence.

IV. Make nouns from each of the following verbs:

1. teach. 2. climb. 3. read. 4. drink. 5. sleep. 6. bathe.
7. smoke. 8. write. 9. play. 10. work. 11. swim. 12. run.

(-er is often added to a verb to form a noun. This noun stands for the doer of the action expressed by the verb. In 11 and 12 the last letter is doubled.)

V. Make ten questions, using these question words:

Who? What? Where? Why? How many? What kind of?
What is the difference? Is there? Are there? Can you?

VI. Put in the possessive adjectives.¹ Make the possessive adjectives the same number, person, and gender as the subject; e.g. No. 1 is his (singular number, third person, masculine gender) because the subject boy is singular number, third person, masculine gender.

¹ The forms my, his, your, etc., are generally called Possessive Adjectives. They do the work of adjectives because they tell us more about the nouns that they go with.

	Subject
1.	The boy	is playing with — football.
2.	The boys	are playing with — football.
3.	The girl	has a tennis racket in — hand.
4.	The girls	have tennis rackets in — hands.
5.	I	am staying at — hotel with — boy.
6.	He	is staying at — hotel with — boy.
7.	He	is staying at — hotel with — daughter.
8.	He	is staying at — hotel with — boys and girls.
9.	She	is sitting at — table eating — ice.
10.	I	am sitting at — table eating — ice. .

19.	The inkpot	is on — side.
20.	We	have many trees and mountains in — country.
21.	The teacher	is in — classroom, teaching — class. ¹

Composition

Close your books and write a description of the picture on page 69.

¹ There are two answers to this one.

LESSON 11 (Eleventh Lesson)

Time. Days, Months, Seasons

On page 77 there is a picture of a clock. It has a round face with figures on it, and two hands, a long hand and a short hand.

The short hand points to the hours, the long hand points to the minutes. Some clocks have three hands, a long hand, a short hand, and a very short one to point to the seconds.

We can tell the time by a clock or watch. A clock is big; it is generally on the wall, or it stands on the table or over the fire. A watch is small; we can put one in our pocket or wear it on the wrist.

Some clocks are very big; for example, Big Ben, the clock¹ on the Houses of Parliament in London. The minute hand of Big Ben is fourteen feet long, and the hour hand is nine feet long. You can hear Big Ben every night on the wireless at nine o'clock. At that hour its sound goes out all over the world.

Can you tell the time, Mr. A.?

MR. A.: Yes, I can tell the time.

TEACHER: What time is it by this clock?

MR. A.: It is one o'clock.

TEACHER: The minute hand moves to I. What time is it then, Mr. A.?

MR. A.: It is five minutes past one (or five past one).

TEACHER: Quite right. Now the minute hand moves to II. What time is it then, Mr. B.?

MR. B.: Ten minutes past one (or ten past one).

TEACHER: Very good. Now the minute hand moves again, this time to III.

MR. C.: It is then a quarter past one.

TEACHER: Correct.

MISS D.: Can I say it is one-fifteen?

TEACHER: Yes, you can say "one-fifteen," "one-thirty," or "one-forty-five" instead of "a quarter past," "half past," or "a quarter to." We generally say that for the times of trains or aeroplanes, e.g.

I come on the nine-fifteen train every morning. It gets into London at nine-forty-five.

MISS E.: When can I say "past" and when can I say "to"?

TEACHER: Who knows the answer to that?

MISS F.: I can answer that, I think.

TEACHER: Very well, Miss F., what is the answer?

MISS F.: We say "past" at I, II, III, IV, V, and VI.

We say "to" at VII, VIII, IX, X, and XI.

TEACHER: That is quite correct, Miss F.

MR. A.: How can you show the difference between twelve o'clock in the day and twelve o'clock at night?

TEACHER: Who can give the answer to that?

MR. B.: I can. Twelve o'clock at night is "midnight"; after that we use the letters A.M., e.g. 12.10 A.M.

MR. C.: What is the meaning of A.M., please?

TEACHER: Miss D., can you tell Mr. C.?

MISS D.: Yes; A.M. is a short form of the Latin words ante meridiem, meaning "before noon."

TEACHER: That's very good, Miss D. Now what is twelve o'clock in the daytime, Miss E.?

MISS E.: Twelve o'clock in the daytime is "noon" (or "mid-day"). After that we use the letters P.M.; for example, 1.45 P.M.

TEACHER: That is quite correct. Now, Miss F., what is the meaning of P.M.?

MISS F.: P.M. is a short form of the Latin words post meridiem, meaning "after noon."

TEACHER: That is very good. Now look at these three clocks. The right time is four o'clock. What can you say about the middle clock, Mr. A.?

MR. A.: The clock in the middle is right. It is telling the correct time.

TEACHER: Good. Now, Mr. B., you speak about the clock on the left.

MR. B.: The clock on the left is not right. It is not telling the correct time. It is five minutes slow.

TEACHER: That's right. Now, Mr. C., you speak about the clock on the right.

MR. C.: The clock on the right is incorrect, too. It is not telling the right time. It is five minutes fast.

TEACHER: Very good. Now, Miss D., go round the clock, please, giving all the five minutes from two o'clock to half past two.

MISS D.: Five past two, ten past two, a quarter past two, twenty past two, twenty-five past two, half past two.

TEACHER: Good. Now, Miss E., go on from half past two to three o'clock.

MISS E.: Half past two, twenty-five to three, twenty to three, a quarter to three, ten to three, five to three, three o'clock.

TEACHER: What time is it by the school clock, Miss F.?

MISS F.: It is a quarter to four.

TEACHER: What time is it by your watch, Mr. A.?

MR. A.: By my watch it is twelve minutes to four.

TEACHER: And what time is it by your watch, Mr. B.?

MR. B.: By my watch it is eighteen minutes to four.

There are twelve months in the year. The names of the months are: January,¹ February, March, April, May, June, July, August, September, October, November, December.

The seasons in England are: Spring (March, April, May); Summer (June, July, August); Autumn (September, October, November); Winter (December, January, February).

GRAMMAR

In the forms, Mr. A.'s watch, John's book, the boy's football, you have examples of the Possessive Case.

With singular nouns we add an apostrophe (') and s. With plural nouns ending in -s we add only the apostrophe.

Singular

The boy's football = the football of the boy.

The girl's dress = the dress of the girl.

The king's son = the son of the king.

Plural

The boys' football = the football of the boys.

The girls' dresses = the dresses of the girls.

The kings' sons = the sons of the kings.

¹ May, June, July are always written in full. The others are sometimes shortened as follows: Jan., Feb., Mar., Apr., Aug., Sept., Oct., Nov., Dec.

With plural nouns not ending in s we add an (') and s. There are only a few nouns with plurals not ending in s. Here are three examples:

Singular

The man's suit.
The woman's dress.
The child's bucket and spade.

Plural

The men's suits.
The women's dresses.
The children's buckets and spades.

PHRASES

To tell the time.
What time is it?
For example.
Five minutes fast.
Five minutes slow.
What is the meaning of?
On the right; in the middle.

Fourteen feet long.
All over the world.
Show the difference between.
Quite right, quite correct.
Very good.
Instead of.

Note the two meanings of round:

1. There are flowers round the door (p. 42). Go round the clock (p. 79).
2. The clock has a round face (p. 76).

In (1) round is a preposition; in (2) it is an adjective.

feet is the plural of foot. There are two meanings of foot. You can see them in these sentences:

1. The boy kicks the ball with his foot. It is a football.
2. The piece of paper is a foot long (a foot = 12 inches = 30.48 cm.).

second

Note the two meanings of second:

1. This is the second lesson.
2. There are sixty seconds in a minute.

VII. Write about these clocks:

Dictation

I can tell the time by the clock. I can tell the hours and the minutes. I can tell when a watch or a clock is slow, or when it is fast. The school clock is at four o'clock; my watch says five to four. My watch is five minutes slow. Henry's watch says eight minutes past four; his watch is eight minutes fast. Twelve o'clock in the daytime is noon; twelve o'clock at night is midnight.

LESSON 12 (Twelfth Lesson)

The Past Tense "to be", "have", "can"

TEACHER AND MR. A.

was, were

TEACHER: Where were you this time last year, Mr. A.?

MR. A.: A year ago I was in Turkey. I was at a school there.

TEACHER: Were you studying English then?

MR. A.: Yes, I was studying a little but not very much. I was at a school in Ankara. My brother was there, too. It was a very good school. All the teachers were good; the teacher for my class was very good. But my brother and I were only at school for a few weeks before coming to England, so our knowledge of the language was, of course, very small.

TEACHER AND MR. B.

TEACHER: You can speak English a little now, Mr. B., can't you?

MR. B.: Yes, I can speak a little; not quite as much as my friend, Mr. A.

TEACHER: Could you speak English a year ago?

MR. B.: This time last year I could speak only a few words; I could not speak English well. It was very difficult to learn English.

TEACHER: How was that?

MR. B.: Well, I was not as lucky as Mr. A. He could get a good teacher; I could not. There were no English people in my town, a very small town in Egypt, and it was difficult to find a good teacher. There were one or two teachers, but they were not English. They could not speak English well and couldn't¹ explain the grammar to their students; so I was very glad to come to England to learn English well.

TEACHER AND MISS D.

TEACHER: What about you, Miss D.; could you speak English a year ago?

MISS D.: No, a year ago I couldn't speak a word. I wasn't thinking about English or England. I had no time; we had a big farm and I had a lot of work to do on it. I had to work hard.

TEACHER: Had you? That is very interesting.

MISS D.: Yes. I am fond of the country, and I was very fond of the work, but I couldn't do all that work and learn English, too. I hadn't a minute for study from morning till night.

TEACHER: What animals had you on the farm?

MISS D.: Oh, we had horses and cows, sheep and pigs.

TEACHER: And were they a lot of work for you?

MISS D.: Well, there were fifteen men working on the farm. They were all big eaters and I had to feed all these men. It was nearly a full day's work cooking their food. I couldn't cook enough¹; they could always eat everything on the table. Oh, yes, it was hard work, and I couldn't find time for study, but I had a happy time on the farm and I was very sorry to come away.

¹ In conversation we generally use this shortened form of could not.

GRAMMAR

The past tense: to be, to have, can.

The past tense of these verbs is very simple. There are only two forms for to be, i.e. was (singular) and were (plural); only one form for to have, i.e. had; and one for can, i.e. could.

Here are all the forms of the past tense of these verbs:

TO BE

Affirmative	Interrogative	Negative
I, he, she, it was	was I, he, she, it?	I, he, she, it was not ²
we, you, they, were	were we, you, they?	we, you, they were not ³

TO HAVE

Affirmative	Interrogative	Negative
I, he, she, it } had we, you, they }	had { I, he, she, it? we, you, they? }	I, he, she, it } had we, you, they } not ⁴

² Shortened form, wasn't.

CAN

Affirmative	Interrogative	Negative
I, he, she, it } we, you, they }	could { I, he, she, it? we, you, they? }	I, he, she, it } could we, you, they } not ¹

8. we were not. 9. they had not. 10. we could not.

V. Put the following piece of dictation into the past tense.

(The past tense of cook is cooked).

Dictation

We have a farm, and it is a very interesting place. There are animals on it, sheep and cows, horses and pigs. In the fields near the farm there are potatoes, cabbages, and corn. I am very fond of the farm and we are lucky to have it, but there is a lot of work to do on it.

My sister has a lot of work to do on the farm. She has the cooking of all the food for the fifteen men there. The cooking is nearly a full day's work for my sister. The men can always eat all the food on the table, and she always cooks a lot of food for all these men. That is why she cannot find time to learn English; she hasn't a minute for study from morning till night. She can't do both things—cook and learn English. She is happy doing one thing well, cooking, and is always sorry to go away from the farm.

LESSON 13 (Thirteenth Lesson)

The Characters in the Essential English Books (1)

MR. PRIESTLEY

This is Mr. Priestley, the teacher. He teaches English and he knows English, French and German, and he speaks and reads and writes these languages very well.

He is not a young man, but he is not old. He is about forty-four or forty-five years old. He is a good-looking man, tall, handsome, rather thin, with dark-brown hair just beginning to go grey. He is always very well-dressed, but quietly, in good taste. He usually wears suits of dark brown, dark blue or dark grey.

He speaks quietly and pleasantly, but there is strength under his quietness, and every student in his class knows this. He is quiet and pleasant because he is strong. Strength is generally quiet; weakness often is not.

He reads a great many books, and he writes books for his students. In the picture you can see him sitting in his study, in a big armchair by the fire.

A bright fire is burning in the fireplace. It burns all day in cold weather. Another armchair is on the opposite side of the fire. On his left there is a tray with a coffee pot and a coffee-cup on it, and near to it you can see his pipe and tobacco.

A cat is sitting on the arm of his chair. That is Mr. Priestley's cat, Sally. She often sits there, or on his desk when he is writing, and watches him.

He has a book in his hand and he is reading it. There are books on the shelves all round the walls of his study. More books are on his desk, and some others are on the floor.

His desk is in the middle of the room. Pens, pencils, an inkpot and paper are on the desk. The telephone is on the left, and a tray for letters is on the right. Just behind the telephone there is a reading-lamp. He works here at his books for three or four hours every evening.

You can see his typewriter on a little table in a corner of the room. But he can't type very well. He types with only two fingers and a thumb!

It is almost eleven o'clock by the clock on the wall, but Mr. Priestley is still working. He works very late, sometimes till two or three o'clock in the morning, but generally he goes to bed about twelve or one o'clock.

He often teaches his students in this room. He hasn't many students, generally about six. They come here for their lessons every day except Saturday and Sunday. Saturday and Sunday are holidays.

PARTS OF THE DAY

morning, afternoon, evening.

Nouns and Adjectives

Many nouns are formed from adjectives by adding -ness, e.g.

Adjective	Noun	Adjective	Noun
weak	weakness	bad	badness
good	goodness	quiet	quietness
big	bigness	small	smallness
red	redness	black	blackness
green	greenness	white	whiteness
(and all the other colours)
bright	brightness	dark	darkness

¹ Note the spelling: y changed to i.

But notice:

Adjective	Noun	Adjective	Noun
strong	strength	difficult	difficulty
long	length	beautiful	beauty

In this lesson you had the word a "reading-lamp." That means "a lamp for reading." We make a lot of words in this way, e.g.

a sewing-machine = a machine for sewing.

a walking-stick = a stick for walking.

a writing-desk = a desk for writing or a desk where we write.

a sitting-room = a room where we sit.

a dressing-room = a room where we dress.

a dining-room = a room where we dine, i.e. have dinner and other meals.

a swimming-bath = a bath where we can swim.

Notice another construction with -ing. It comes three times in Lesson 13.

Mr. Priestley is rather thin, with dark brown hair beginning to go grey.

In the picture you can see Mr. Priestley sitting in his study.

There is a bright fire burning in the fireplace.

These phrases are like adjectives; they tell us more about a noun.

Noun	Adjective phrase
hair	beginning to go grey
Mr. Priestley	sitting in his study
fire	burning in the fireplace

They are adjective phrases.

Note the two meanings of study:

1. As a verb = to learn.
We study English every day.
2. As a noun = a room to read or write in.
Mr. Priestley is sitting in his study.

EXERCISES

I. Answer the following questions:

1. Who is the man in the picture?
2. Is he young or old? How old is he?
3. What is he?
4. What languages can he speak and read and write?
5. What colour is his hair?
6. What can you say about his clothes?
7. Where is he sitting? Are there any other chairs in the room?
8. What has he in his hand?
9. What is he doing?
10. Where are the books in the room?
11. When is there a fire in the room?
12. Where is the desk?

¹ And Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday.

13. What is on Mr. Priestley's left?
14. What things are on the desk?
15. What colour of suit has he generally?
16. What time is it by the clock in the study?
17. Where is his reading-lamp?
18. Where is his typewriter?
19. Has he many students?
20. Which days are "week-days"?

II. Close your books and write a description of:

1. Mr. Priestley.
2. His study.

Dictation

Mr. Priestley is a teacher of English. He is not a very young man, but he is not old. He knows three or four languages and reads and speaks and writes them well. He reads many books and writes some.

It is almost eleven by the study clock, but he works late, sometimes till one o'clock in the morning.

His big desk is in the middle of the room. On the floor by the desk there are a number of books.

His students come to his study for their lessons. They come every day except Saturday and Sunday.

LESSON 14 (Fourteenth Lesson)

The Simple Present Tense

Note the sentences:

A.

He is reading a book.

He is still working.

A fire is burning in the fireplace.

Sally is sitting on the arm of his chair.

B.

He reads many books.

He works here every evening.

A fire burns all day in cold weather.

She often sits there.

In sentences "A" the action is taking place now. It is not finished. Mr. Priestley is reading now, the fire is still burning, the work is not finished.

The verbs in these sentences are in the Continuous Tense.

In sentences "B" the action is a usual or repeated one. Mr. Priestley reads to-day, and again to-morrow, and the next day and the next day, i.e. on many days. He works every evening; the fire burns on every cold day, i.e. many times. The cat often sits on his chair. The students come every day (except Saturday and Sunday); the action is repeated five times a week.

The verbs in these sentences are in the Simple Present Tense.

We use the Continuous Present Tense for an action that is taking place now.

We use the Simple Present Tense for an action that is usual or repeated.

I am riding.

PRESENT CONTINUOUS

I ride every day.

SIMPLE PRESENT

We generally use the Simple Present Tense with words or phrases like every day, always, often, sometimes, never, e.g.

The students come here every day.

He always teaches in this room.

She often sits there.

He sometimes works until two o'clock.

He never goes to bed before twelve o'clock.

EXERCISES

Put in the correct tense (Present Continuous or Simple Present):

1. Mr. Priestley always (to wear) a dark suit.
2. To-day he (to wear) a dark brown one.
3. In the picture Mr. Priestley (to sit) in an arm-chair.
4. He generally (to sit) in that chair in the evening.
5. I never (to go) to bed before eleven o'clock at night.
6. It is twelve o'clock so I (to go) to bed now.
7. The sun (to shine) just now and the sky is blue.
8. The sun often (to shine) all day in summer.
9. The earth (to move) round the sun.
10. The children in the picture (to play) on the sands.

The Simple Present Tense Interrogative

To form the Simple Present Tense Interrogative of all verbs (except to be, to have, can, and one or two others)¹ we use the verb do with the infinitive of the other verb, e.g.

Affirmative

I teach.

You come.

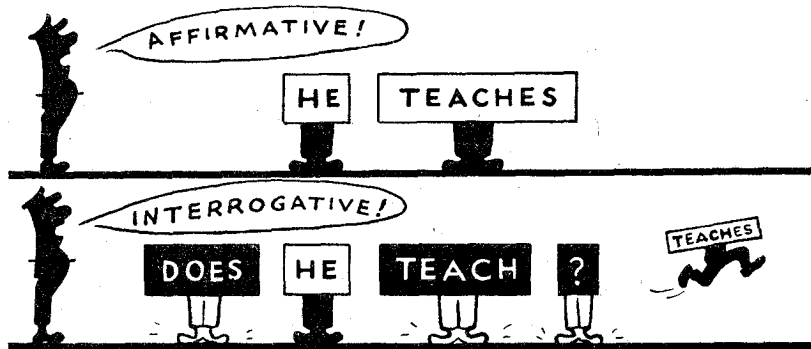

He teaches.

Interrogative

Do I teach?

Do you come?

Does he teach?

They work.

It moves.

Do they work?

Does it move?

Do { I?
you?
we?
they?

Does { he?
she?
it?

Here are other examples of questions and answers:

Question

Does he teach English?

Does Mr. Priestley teach his students?

Does he read many books?

Answer

Yes, he does.

Yes, he does.

Yes, he does.

¹ Namely, shall (should), will (would), may (might), must, ought, and sometimes have, do, need and dare.

Does he go to bed late?	Yes, he does.

26. The telephone stands on the desk.
27. The windows are open.
28. The windows stand open.
29. He can open the windows.
30. He opens the windows.

LESSON 15 (Fifteenth Lesson)

Discussion of Lesson 13. Simple Present Tense Negative

TEACHER: There are one or two things to notice about Lesson 13. It says "Mr. Priestley is not a young man, but he is not old." So the opposite of old is young. But isn't there another opposite of old?

MR. A.: Yes, there is new, isn't there? The opposite of "an old book" is not "a young book," but "a new book."

TEACHER: That is quite right. Notice, too, the two uses of old:

1. He is an old man.
2. The boy is five years old.

MR. B.: It says, "Mr. Priestley is tall." What is the opposite of tall, please?

TEACHER: The opposite of tall is short. Here is a tall man and a short man.

Mr. Littleman is short. Mr. Lengthy is tall.

MR. C.: Do you say, "Mr. Lengthy has 77 inches," or "Mr. Littleman has only 62 inches"?

1 Inch = 2.540 centimetres : 1 Centimetre = 0.394 inch TEACHER: No, we don't say that; we say, "Mr. Lengthy is six foot¹ five inches tall," or "Mr. Littleman is only five foot two,"² or "Mr. Priestley is six feet." And speaking of a person's age we say "Mr. Priestley is forty-four years old," and not "Mr. Priestley has forty-four years."

MISS D.: Isn't there another opposite of short? The opposite of "a short stick" isn't "a tall stick," is it?

TEACHER: No, you are quite right. The opposite of "a short person" is "a tall person"; the opposite of "a short thing" is "a long thing." For example:

A short stick.

A long stick.

I am going for a short walk.

My friend is going for a long one.

MISS D.: Mr. Priestley works very late, too late, I think. Perhaps he doesn't know the saying:

"Early³ to bed, early to rise, Makes a man healthy, wealthy, and wise."

TEACHER: Oh, yes, he knows it, but he doesn't believe it. Do you, Miss D.?

MISS D.: No, I don't believe it. I go to bed early and rise early. I am healthy, but I am not wealthy and not very wise.

MISS E.: The lesson speaks about Mr. Priestley being strong, meaning "with a strong character." Do you use the same word for a man with a strong body?

¹ Or six feet five.

² We often miss out the word inches.

³ Early is the opposite of late.

MR. ARMSTRONG

MR. FEEBLE

TEACHER: Oh, yes. Here you are:

Mr. Armstrong has strong arms. He is a very strong man. Mr. Feeble is not strong. His arms are very weak. He is a weak man.

MISS F.: Can you speak of strong tea or strong coffee?

TEACHER: Oh, yes; and strong drink and strong language.

MISS F.: Mr. Armstrong is a tall, strong man. Is he, then, a big man or a great man?

TEACHER: A big one, not a great one.

MISS F.: What is the difference, please?

TEACHER: Well, it is rather difficult to put into a few words; but, in short, one is of the body, the other is of the spirit and character of a man. Bigness is a bodily thing; greatness is a spiritual one. A great man can have, like Lord Nelson, a weak body; but he has a strong spirit. A big man can have bodily strength, but spiritual weakness.

MISS F.: Thank you; I quite see the difference now.

MR. H.: In the lesson we read about Mr. Priestley's dark brown hair and dark blue suit. What is the opposite of "dark" brown and "dark" blue?

TEACHER: "Light" brown and "light" blue.

MR. H.: "Mr. Priestley is always well-dressed." Another man is not well-dressed. He is—what?

TEACHER: Well, what do you think?

MR. H.: I think "badly-dressed."

TEACHER: And that is quite right. Next question, please?

MISS D.: Mr. Priestley is "rather thin." What is the opposite of "thin," please?

TEACHER: Well, it depends on the sentence. The opposite of "a thin man" is "a fat man," of "a thin cow" is "a fat cow"; but the opposite of "a thin book" is "a thick book". So we could say: "One stick is short and thick; another one is long and thin".

MISS D.: "Mr. Priestley is good-looking and handsome." Can you use those words to describe girls or women, as well as men?

TEACHER: Yes, you can. But generally we speak of girls as "pretty" or "beautiful."

MISS E.: But do you speak of men as "pretty" or "beautiful"?

TEACHER: Oh, no, never.

MR. B.: Is there a difference between "The girl is pretty" and "The girl is beautiful"?

TEACHER: Yes, I think so. "Pretty" is pleasant to the eye or ear. Some new dance-music is pretty, but the music of Beethoven or Handel or Tchaikovsky is beautiful.

MISS F.: Yes. The pictures in a newspaper can be pretty, but the pictures of Raphael and El Greco, Rembrandt or Turner, are beautiful.

TEACHER: Quite right. Beauty is rather like greatness: it is a spiritual thing. It is in the spirit of a man, and it comes out in his work, or it is in the character of a woman, and it comes out in her face. Do you understand the difference now, Mr. B.?

MR. B.: Oh, yes; I know the difference now. Nearly all girls are good-looking; some are pretty; a few, a very few, are beautiful.

GRAMMAR

The Simple Present Tense Negative

To form the Simple Present Tense Negative of all verbs except to be, can, and one or two others,¹ we use the verb do with not and the infinitive of the verb, e.g.

Affirmative	Negative
I teach	I do not teach
you come	you do not come
he teaches	he does not teach
they work	they do not work
it moves	it does not move

In conversation we often shorten do not to don't and does not to doesn't.

¹ The "special" verbs are: be, can (could), shall (should), will (would), may (might), must, ought and sometimes have, do, need and dare (the same verbs as on p. 101).

Here are other examples (with the two forms, the long form and the shortened conversational form):

We do not (don't) say that (p. 107).

Perhaps he does not (doesn't) know the saying (p. 107).

He knows it but he does not (doesn't) believe it (p. 107).

I do not (don't) believe it (p. 107).

John does not (doesn't) do his work every day.

The students do not (don't) do their work every day.

ORAL EXERCISE

I. Answer the following questions (a) affirmatively (i.e. begin "Yes, . . ."), (b) negatively (i.e. begin "No, . . ."), using the short form:

1. Does the man work in the field?
2. Do the men work in the fields?
3. Does she make good coffee?
4. Do they make good coffee?
5. Do you make good coffee?
6. Is the man very handsome?
7. Does he read many books?
8. Is he reading a book now?
9. Does he speak English?
10. Do they speak English?
11. Can she speak English?
12. Can they speak English?
13. Do you go to bed early?
14. Does he go to bed early?

¹ Note the difference in pronunciation. See footnote p. 57. In useful(ly) and useless the s is unvoiced.

II. Make each of these negative. Use the short form.

Mr. Priestley	}	{	teach(es) English.
Mary			know(s) French.
you			speak(s) Spanish.
they			write(s) Polish.
Paddy			work(s) late.
I			go(es) to the class.
the little boys			do(es) much work.

e.g. Mr. Priestley doesn't speak Spanish.

They don't work late, etc. (there are 49 sentences).

III. Make the following negative:

1. The man works in the field.
2. She makes very good coffee.
3. They make very good tea.
4. Please close the door.
5. The man is very handsome. (This one is different. Be careful, too, with numbers 8, 10, 14, 19.)
6. He reads many books.
7. The waiters do their work well.
8. He can speak English very well.
9. She writes a letter every day.
10. The students have new books.
11. I go to bed very early.
12. The boy swims to the big rock.
13. The boys swim to the big rock.
14. The girls are playing tennis with their fathers.
15. The girls play tennis with their fathers.
16. The dog sleeps all day in the hotel.
17. I climb big mountains.
18. Harry climbs big mountains.
19. Harry is climbing the big mountain.
20. I know all about the negative of verbs.

IV. Give the names of five colours and use each one in a sentence.

V. Give the names of two pretty things and two beautiful ones. Use each in a sentence.

VI. Give the opposites of: strong, tall, fat, late, thick, dark, young, right, warm, big, far, short, good, high, new. Use each in a sentence.

Dictation

Strong men are not always tall; small people are not always weak; it depends on the person. A man may be weak in body but strong in character. He can have spiritual strength with bodily weakness.

Beauty is rather like greatness. It, too, is in the character of a man or a woman and this spirit in men and women gives the world its great music, books, and pictures.

Composition

Write about this picture.

LESSON 16 (Sixteenth Lesson)

Subjects and Objects

There are two forms for some of the pronouns, one when the pronoun is the subject of the verb, another when it is the object of the verb.

Here are some very simple sentences. In the first column you have the subjects of the verb. In the third column you have the objects of the verb. With each noun in the subject or object, there is (in brackets) its pronoun.

SUBJECT	Pronoun	VERB	OBJECT	Pronoun
The teacher	(I)	sees (see)	the boy	(him)
The boy	(he)	sees	the teacher	(me)
The girl	(she)	sees	the teacher	(me)
The teacher	(I)	sees (see)	the girl	(her)
The boys	(they)	see	the teachers	(us)
The teachers	(we)	see	the boys	(them)

The form of the pronoun in the subject column, is the nominative.

The form of the pronoun in the object column is the objective.

After a preposition, the pronoun is always in the objective form.

Here is the list of the two forms of the pronouns:

Nominative	Objective	Nominative	Objective
I	me	it	it
you	you	we	us
he	him	they	them
she	her

Pronouns are in the Nominative Case when they are the subject of a verb. They are in the Objective Case (1) when they are the object of a verb, (2) after a preposition.

Nominative	Verb	Objective		Preposition	Objective
I	know	him	and I write	to	him
You	know	me	and you write	to	me
He	knows	her	and he writes	to	her
She	knows	us	and she writes	to	us
We	know	them	and we write	to	them
They	know	you	and they write	to	you

Objects

One or two verbs, like tell and give, often have two objects. One of them is generally a person, the other a thing, e.g.

Subject	Verb	Object ¹
		(1)	(2)
I	am giving	the students	a lesson
He	can tell	you	the answer

WE HAVE TWO OBJECTS

EXERCISES

I. Which are the subjects and which are the objects in the following sentences?

1. Mr. Priestley is reading a book.
2. He teaches French and German.
3. You can see him in the picture.
4. He is writing a letter.
5. I teach the students in this room.
6. He can speak English.
7. She is wearing a white dress.

¹ Note that the personal ("indirect") object comes first, the impersonal ("direct") object second.

8. My sister is giving her the dress.
9. The boy can't tell me his name.
10. I can tell you the time.

II. Divide these sentences into subject, verb and object like this:

Subject	Verb	Object

and then underline each pronoun on your paper:

1. He teaches us.
2. She knows me.
3. It helps them.
4. We know her.
5. They write it.
6. He is carrying a ball.
7. I am teaching you.
8. They are eating ices.
9. He is reading it.
10. You are teaching them.

III. In the following sentences put the words that are in the subject into the object, and the words that are in the object into the subject. Change the form of each and the verb where necessary:

(No. 1 is done for you.)

	Subject	Verb	Object
1.	I	see	him
Answer	He	sees	me
2.	He	teaches	them
3.	She	knows	us
4.	We	help	them
5.	I	thank	her

IV. Cross out the wrong pronoun.

1. I write to (he, him) and he writes to (I, me).
2. Mary goes to a dance, and Henry goes with (her, she).
3. We know (them, they) very well, and they know (we, us).
4. I see (she, her) in the classroom, and she sees (me, I).
5. He telephones to (she, her) every day and tells (she, her) the news.
6. He speaks English to (we, us), and (we, us) speak English to (he, him).
7. She speaks English to (I, me), and (I, me) speak English to (she, her).
8. They write to (she, her), and (she, her) writes to (they, them).

money, a big house, and a manservant; Mr. Needy hasn't much money, but he has a cornet in the street outside. Look at the pictures on page 122, then answer these questions about them. Use these words in your answers:

play, cornet, ear, pound-note.

CORNET

Picture 1. What is Mr. Needy doing? Where is he playing his cornet?

Picture 2. Does Mr. Wealthy like the noise? Where is he putting his fingers? Why is he doing this?

Picture 3. Where is Mr. Wealthy now? What is he doing?

Picture 4. Who are the people in this picture? What is Mr. Wealthy holding in his hand? In which hand is he holding the pound-notes? How many pound-notes are there in his hand? What is he saying to the manservant?

Picture 5. Who has the pound-notes now? Which hand is he holding them in? Does he look happy? What is the manservant doing with the cornet? In which hand is he carrying the cornet?

Picture 6. What is Mr. Wealthy doing now? Who is showing him the cornet?

Picture 7. Where is the cornet now?

Picture 8. What is Mr. Wealthy doing now? What colour do you think his face is? Who is putting his fingers in his ears now?

Composition Exercise

Write the story of the rich man and the cornet player.

LESSON 17 (Seventeenth Lesson)

The Characters in the Essential English Books (2)

MRS. PRIESTLEY AND SOME OTHERS

You already know Mr. Priestley, the teacher and writer. In this lesson you will hear about his wife, Mrs. Priestley, the Priestleys' house, and some of the people in the house. Mrs. Priestley knows all about the house; she does the work in it every day, and to-day she will tell you a little about it.¹

MRS. PRIESTLEY SEWING

Mrs. Priestley is a pleasant-looking woman of about forty, with warm brown hair and soft dark-brown eyes. She is kind and gentle, but she manages her house (and, in her quiet way, her husband) very well. He is, of course, a clever man, but a little

¹ You will hear more about it in Book II.

unpractical, and he needs Mrs. Priestley to look after him. Mrs. Priestley, on the other hand, is very practical and full of common sense.¹

The Priestleys have two children, John and Margaret. John is eighteen, six foot tall, and a fine manly fellow. He is at the university and is studying to be a doctor. He is a clever, hard-working student, a first-class footballer, boxer, and runner. He is strong both in body and character, and quiet and thoughtful like his father. He will make a good doctor.

Margaret is only eleven. She is a lovely little girl with golden hair and dark blue eyes and a spirit that is always bright and happy, full of joy and gaiety. She isn't fond of study of any kind, but she loves music and dancing and she sings very prettily. She is like a ray of sunshine in the house. Mr. Priestley is very fond of his son John and very proud of him; and Margaret is the apple of his eye.²

But here comes Mrs. Priestley. "Good morning, Mrs. Priestley; how are you?"

MRS. PRIESTLEY: Good morning, everyone. I'm very well, thank you. You want to know about my house. Well, I am very pleased to be here and I will gladly tell you something about it.

The house is rather big, and there is a lot of work in it, so I can't do everything alone. I have Susan and Lizzie to help me with the work.

² To be the apple of his eye = to be very dear to him; much loved (Idiomatic expression.)

Lizzie is our cook, and she is a very good cook, but she is no good at all at housework. Now, Susan is very good at housework, but she can't cook at all—she can't even boil an egg.

But that is all right, for Lizzie gets on with her cooking, and Susan and I do the housework—and, believe me, we all work very hard.

Susan and Lizzie get up at a quarter to seven, and make the fires and open the windows. I get up at half past seven, and so does my husband, in time for breakfast at eight o'clock.

We have breakfast in the breakfast-room. I like to begin the day well, so our breakfast is always a good one.

My husband reads his newspaper and smokes a cigarette with his last cup of tea, before he begins his work at nine o'clock.

Then Lizzie and Susan begin to clean the house, wash up, make the beds, and get the vegetables ready for lunch. We have lunch at one o'clock.

SUSAN WASHES UP

After that I do some sewing, or go out for a walk, or go to see people.

We have afternoon tea about five o'clock, but for that we don't go into the dining-room. We go to the sitting-room, and Susan brings in the tea with plates of bread and butter and small cakes.

After tea we sit and talk or listen to the wireless or read. Sometimes we go to the cinema or the theatre. About seven or eight o'clock we have dinner or supper, and at eleven o'clock I generally go to bed, but my husband likes to sit up late and read or write in his study.

Well, that is all for the present. I will tell you more about the house some other time.

EXERCISES

I. Put in the words that are left out:

1. You — know Mr. Priestley the teacher and writer.
2. In this lesson you — hear about his wife.
3. To-day she — tell you — — about it.
4. Mrs. Priestley is a — looking woman of — forty.
5. She is kind and — but she — her house very well.
6. He is, of —, a clever man but rather —.
7. The Priestleys have two —, John and Margaret.
8. John is a fine — fellow. He is at the —.
9. Margaret is a — little girl with — hair.
10. She is always happy and full of —.
11. She isn't — of study of any kind.
12. She is like a — of sunshine in the house.
13. Margaret is the — of his eye.
14. I am very — to be here.
15. The house is big and there is a — of work in it, so I can't do everything —.

16. Susan can't even — an egg.
17. Lizzie and Susan get the — ready for lunch.
18. After lunch I do some — or go out for a walk.
19. After tea we sit and talk or listen to the —.
20. Well, that is all for the —.

II. Answer the following. Make sentences for your answers:

1. Who will tell you about the Priestleys' house?
2. How old is Mrs. Priestley?
3. What colour are her eyes and her hair?
4. What does she manage very well?
5. How many children have the Priestleys?
6. What are their names?
7. How old is John and where is he?
8. What is he studying to be?
9. What is he fond of?
10. What colour is Margaret's hair?
11. What does she do?
12. Is Mr. Priestley fond of her?
13. Who does the cooking in the Priestleys' house?
14. What time does Lizzie get up?
15. What time do you generally go to bed?
16. Do the Priestleys have an early breakfast?
17. Where do they have breakfast?
18. What does Mrs. Priestley do after lunch?
19. What do they have for tea?
20. When will Mrs. Priestley tell you more about the house?

Idiomatic Phrases

III. In this lesson there are a lot of idiomatic phrases, that is, the kind of phrases that English people use in ordinary everyday conversation. Here they are again. Learn them, and then use each in a sentence:

1. a pleasant-looking woman.
2. a hard-working student.

3. a first-class footballer.
4. of course.
5. to look after him.
6. common sense.
7. He will make a good doctor.
8. of any kind.
9. on the other hand.
10. Susan is very good at housework.
11. Lizzie is no good at all at housework.
12. That is all right.
13. Lizzie gets on with the cooking.
14. I get up at seven o'clock.
15. We get the vegetables ready.
16. We wash up and make the beds.
17. I go out for a walk.
18. Susan brings in the tea.
19. My husband likes to sit up late.
20. That is all for the present.

IV. Make a sentence or two about each of the following:

1. Mrs. Priestley.
2. John Priestley.
3. Margaret.
4. Lizzie.
5. Susan.
6. The Priestleys' house.
7. Their breakfast.
8. Their tea.
9. Their evening.

Dictation

Mrs. Priestley is coming to tell us all about her house. It is rather big and there is a lot of work in it, so she has Lizzie and Susan to help her. Susan does the housework and keeps the house clean. Lizzie cooks the breakfast, lunch and dinner.

After breakfast Lizzie and Susan wash up, clean the house, make the beds and get the vegetables ready for lunch.

Mrs. Priestley has lunch, does some sewing or goes to see people. In the evening, after tea, they all talk or read, listen to music or the wireless, or sometimes they go to the cinema or the theatre.

LESSON 18 (Eighteenth Lesson)

The Future Tense

In the sentences:

You will hear about Mrs. Priestley (p. 124).

She will tell you about her house (p. 124).

I will gladly tell you about it (p. 125).

You will hear more about it in Book II (p. 124).

you have examples of the Future Tense.

Here are some more examples:

Richard Brown will be fourteen years old to-morrow.

He will be up early to-morrow morning.

His father will give him a new bicycle for his birthday.

His sister Mary said to him, "You will be fourteen to-morrow; I shall be ten next June."

To make the future tense, we use "will" with the infinitive of the verb, e.g.

You will hear ^(infinitive) about Mrs. Priestley.

She will tell ^(infinitive) you about her house.

Richard will be ^(infinitive) ten next June.

But with the 1st person (I, we) we sometimes use "shall" and sometimes "will."¹

¹ This is not a full explanation; it is only a small part of the subject. The future tense is explained more fully in Essential English, Book II.

In conversation will and shall are often shortened to "ll", e.g.

You'll hear about Mrs. Priestley's house.

He'll be up early to-morrow morning.

Richard'll be fourteen to-morrow.

I'll be ten next June.

The negative of the Future Tense is formed by adding "not," e.g.

Mrs. Priestley will not tell you about her house.

Richard will not be fourteen until to-morrow.

His father will not give him a bicycle.

I shall not be ten until June.

Will not is generally shortened in conversation to won't, e.g.

She won't tell you about her house.

Richard won't be fourteen until to-morrow.

His father won't give him a bicycle.

AFFIRMATIVE

NEGATIVE

The interrogative of the Future Tense is formed by putting the verb "will" (or "shall") before the subject, e.g.

Will Mrs. Priestley tell us about her house?

Will you please tell us about your house?

Will Richard be fourteen to-morrow?

*Shall I*¹ help you with your work?

MRS. PRIESTLEY: You say the students want to hear about my house, Mr. Eckersley. Shall I tell them about it now?

¹ We do not often use "Will I?" or "Will we?"; usually "Shall I?" or "Shall we?".

MAKING THE INTERROGATIVE

Sometimes we express a future meaning by using the Present Continuous Tense, often with a word or phrase like to-morrow, next week, etc., that gives the future meaning, e.g.

I am going to London to-morrow.

Henry is playing football on Tuesday.

Mary is coming here next week.

We are going to Paris next year.

He never goes by train; he goes everywhere by aeroplane.

These phrases are used in everyday conversation.

¹ The adjective gold = made of gold; golden = looking like gold.

² The two words have the same meaning and use.

³ Every, everyone, everybody, everything are always singular. E.g. Everybody is working well (not Everybody are . . .).

nobody (no one¹)—nothing—nowhere—none.

There is nobody (no one) here.

He does nothing all day long except eat and sleep.

They want a house; they have nowhere to live.

None of the students will be in the class to-morrow.

somebody (someone¹)—something—somewhere.

Somebody is coming to see the house to-day.

She will tell us something about her work.

They can come to our house; that will be somewhere for them to live.

anybody (anyone¹)—anything—anywhere.

Is anybody coming to see the house to-day?

She will not tell us anything about the work.

These people haven't anywhere to live.

NOTE: We generally use some (something, somewhere, etc.) in affirmative sentences. We use any (anything, anywhere, etc.) in interrogative and negative sentences, e.g.

Affirmative	Interrogative	Negative
She wants some new dresses.	Does she want any new dresses?	She doesn't want any new dresses.
There are some books on the table.	Are there any books on the table?	There aren't any books on the table.
He sees somebody in the room.	Does he see anybody in the room?	He doesn't see anybody in the room.

He is going somewhere to-day.	Is he going anywhere to-day?	He isn't going anywhere to-day.

¹ The two words have the same meaning and use.

kind

Notice the two meanings of kind:

1. (Adjective) She is kind and gentle.
2. (Noun) Margaret is not fond of study of any kind. What kind of dress is she wearing.

GREETINGS

Good morning. Good afternoon. Good evening.

EXERCISES

I. Write out these sentences putting the verb (in brackets) into the future tense:

1. I (to write) my lessons in my new book.
2. They (to tell) us about their work.
3. John (to see) his friend at the cinema.
4. Lizzie (to cook) the breakfast for us.
5. Mr. Priestley (to be) in the dining-room at eight o'clock.

II. Make these sentences (a) interrogative, (b) negative:

1. He will tell us about his work.

7. She will tell us something about her work.
8. These people have somewhere to live.
9. There is somebody in the room.
10. The shopkeeper has some eggs.

LESSON 19 (Nineteenth Lesson)

The Characters in the Essential English Books (3)

THE STUDENTS

Here are Mr. Priestley's students. Look at them. They are just coming to his house for their lessons.

You will often meet them in this book and the other books of Essential English. We are going to be present at their lessons and we are going to listen to them talking together.

They are going to talk about their work and their holidays, their countries and their lives, their joys and their sorrows. They will tell you what they like and what they dislike. They will tell you stories; they will write letters, tell jokes, and sing songs for you. I hope that you will soon know them and like them, and feel that you and they are friends. Here is the first one to come.

JAN

This is Jan. He is generally early. He doesn't like to be a minute late for his lessons. He is not only very clever, but he is also a very hard worker and likes to do everything well. He has rather dark brown hair and good grey eyes. He is not very tall, but he is strong, swims well, and is a good footballer.

And who is this? This is Lucille. Lucille is beautiful and rich and gay. She is tall and slim,¹ with big dark eyes and black hair. She goes out to dinner or a dance or a theatre almost every evening, and doesn't generally get to bed until² very late at night—or rather, early in the morning. So, you see, Lucille doesn't do very much work.

LUCILLE

OLAF

This is Olaf. Isn't he a big fellow? He is six foot three tall; he can walk and climb all day and he never feels tired. He is as strong as a horse. He has blue eyes and yellow hair. He doesn't talk much, but he thinks a lot.

¹ Slim = not fat; pleasantly or beautifully thin.

² Until and till are both used with the same meaning.

PEDRO

Here is Pedro. He is very handsome, tall and dark and well-dressed. He is rich and clever, too. He does everything well. He is Spanish, but he speaks English and French very well; he goes everywhere and can talk well about almost everything—music, pictures, other countries, literature and life.

The next one to come in is Frieda. She has brown hair and big grey eyes. She doesn't talk much; she is rather quiet, but is very kind and nice; they all like her. I think that she is pretty, and so do all the other students, except Jan; he thinks that she is beautiful.

FRIEDA

And here is the last one. He is generally the last one to come, but the first to go away. This is Hob. He is certainly not handsome or hard-working or clever. But he thinks that he is all these. He doesn't like swimming or football. He thinks that they are too much like hard work. He doesn't like study. He says that study makes him tired. He isn't polite, and he isn't well-dressed. He doesn't always listen to lessons in class (he sometimes goes to sleep there). He isn't quiet; he talks a lot. He is a good eater and a good sleeper. But he is good-hearted and loves a joke. He knows a lot of funny stories and he always wants to tell them to you.

HOB

Now they are going into Mr. Priestley's study. We will follow them in, and meet them there in Lesson 21.

GRAMMAR

Plurals

In the sentence,

They are going to talk about their countries and their lives
(p. 138).

you have in lives another plural form, a little different from the regular ones. Lives [laivz] is the plural of life [laif]. A number of nouns ending in f or fe change the f to ves to form the plural, e.g.

You will meet other words like these in Books II, III, and IV.

Note also:—

Singular	Plural
story	stories
country	countries
lady	ladies

WORD STUDY

Negative Prefixes

We sometimes make a word negative by using a prefix, e.g. un-, in-, im-, dis-. Here are negatives of words in Lessons 1 to 19.

Negative		Negative
happy	unhappy	like (adj.)	unlike healthy	unhealthy	correct	incorrect
common	uncommon	polite	impolite
pleasant	unpleasant	like (verb)	dislike practical	unpractical	dress (verb)	undress

Related Words

life [laɪf]—live [lɪv]—alive [ə'laɪv].

I will tell you the story of my life.

I live in London.

These rabbits are alive, those are dead.

ALIVE

joy—enjoy—enjoyment.

They will tell you their joys and sorrows.

I enjoy good music: it gives me great enjoyment.

sorry—sorrow—sorrowful.

He was very sorry that my friend was dead.

He looked very sorrowful; there was sorrow in his face.

certain—certainly—uncertain.

Are you certain that you understand the work?

I am uncertain about one or two things.

Hob is certainly not handsome or polite.

polite—politely—politeness—impolite.

He is not polite. He doesn't speak politely. He hardly knows the meaning of politeness. He is very impolite.

fun—funny.

He will tell you funny stories.
She loves fun and gaiety.

TELLING FUNNY STORIES

student ['stju:dənt]

Hob doesn't like study.
Mr. Priestley is in his study.
We are going to study English.
The students are in Mr. Priestley's study.

going to

In Lesson 19 you can see another way of expressing the future, by using going to, e.g.

We are going to be present at their lessons.
We are going to listen to them talking together.
They are going to talk about their holidays.

7. country. 8. half. 9. wife. 10. study.

IV. Write a short description of:

1. Jan. 2. Lucille. 3. Olaf. 4. Pedro. 5. Frieda. 6. Hob.

Dictation

Mr. Priestley has some students at his house for lessons. There are six of them in all, four young men and two girls. Some of them are hard-working and clever; others are clever but don't do much work. One is slim and beautiful, and one is quiet and pretty. One is handsome and well-dressed, and can talk about music and pictures and literature; one is not handsome or clever but he tells funny stories. They are all friends and, in this book and the next three, they are going to talk about their work and their holidays, their joys and sorrows, what they like and what they dislike, and their lives generally.

LESSON 20 (Twentieth Lesson)

Comparison of Adjectives (I)

Scene: MR. PRIESTLEY'S STUDY.

Characters: LUCILLE, MR. PRIESTLEY, PEDRO, JAN, FRIEDA, HOB, OLAF.

LUCILLE: I had a letter from my sister Yvonne this morning. She is coming to London on Friday and asks me to meet her. May I go to the station to meet her on Friday morning please, Mr. Priestley, instead of coming to the class?

MR. PRIESTLEY: Certainly, Lucille. How long is she going to stay in London?

LUCILLE: About a fortnight, I think.

MR. PRIESTLEY: If you are not too busy with other things, come one evening and have dinner with my wife and me, and bring your sister with you.

LUCILLE: Oh, thank you. That's very kind of you. I am sure Yvonne will be pleased to meet you.

PEDRO: Have you any other sisters or brothers, Lucille?

LUCILLE: Yes, I have another sister, Marie, but I haven't any brothers.

JAN: You are lucky. I have neither brother nor sister.

FRIEDA: Then I am luckier than either of you. Our family is quite a big one; there are six of us. I have three brothers and two sisters.

PEDRO: Are Yvonne and Marie older than you, Lucille?

LUCILLE: Marie is older than I am; Yvonne is two years younger than I am.

JAN: Are your brothers and sisters older or younger than you are, Frieda?

FRIEDA: They are all younger; I am the oldest of the family. When I am here with you I feel young, but when I look at my brothers and sisters I begin to feel quite old.

HOB: That reminds me of my Uncle Albert—I will tell you about him some day. He's sixty now, but he says he doesn't feel a day older than forty; and he says, "A man is as young as he looks, and no older than he feels."

JAN: Tell me about the others in your family, Frieda.

FRIEDA: Well the youngest and the smallest one is Fritz; he's the baby of the family. He's only four. Then there are Hans and Peter, the twins. They are exactly as old as each other, thirteen, and exactly as tall as each other, and they are so like each other that people can hardly tell one from the other.

LUCILLE: What are your sisters' names?

FRIEDA: Gretchen and Ruth.

HOB: Are they as pretty as you are?

FRIEDA: Oh they are both prettier than I am. Ruth is the prettiest girl I know. They both have long fair hair, but Ruth's hair is longer and fairer than Gretchen's. Gretchen is fatter than Ruth. (She doesn't like you to say she is fat; and we tell her she will get thinner when she gets older.)

OLAF: I suppose Hans and Peter are at school.

FRIEDA: Yes; and the house is very much quieter when they are at school than when they are at home.

LUCILLE: Boys are always noisier than girls; you can't expect boys to be quiet.

FRIEDA: I'm sure you can't. Hans and Peter are quite the noisiest boys that I know—and the nicest.

JAN: Do they like learning?

FRIEDA: I'm sure they don't; they think of nothing but football and climbing and eating and joking and fighting.

HOB: I liked fighting when I was a boy. I remember my Uncle Albert giving me some very good advice. He said, "When you want to fight, always count a hundred before you hit the other fellow—and if he is bigger than you, count a thousand.”

Comparison of Adjectives (I)

1. In Lesson 20 you had sentences like these:

Hans is as old as Peter.

Peter is as tall as Hans.

They are as tall as each other.

This form of the adjective (old, tall, etc.) is called the Positive Degree.

2. Then you had sentences like these:

I am luckier than you.

Are Marie and Yvonne older than you?

Ruth's hair is longer than Gretchen's, etc.

This form of the adjective (luckier, older, younger, taller, etc.) is called the Comparative Degree.

To form the Comparative degree we add -er to the Positive, e.g.

Positive	Comparative	Positive	Comparative
old	older	fat	fatter ¹
tall	taller	lucky	luckier ²
big	bigger ¹	pretty	prettier ²
thin	thinner ¹	happy	happier ²

¹ When the adjective ends in a single consonant letter with a single vowel letter before it, this consonant letter is doubled in writing.

² When the adjective ends in a consonant + y the y is changed to i.

3. You also had sentences like these:

I am the oldest of the family.

The youngest and the smallest one is Fritz.

Ruth is the prettiest girl I know.

They are the noisiest boys I know—and the niciest.

This form of the adjective is called the Superlative Degree.

To form the Superlative degree we add -est to the Positive degree, e.g.

Positive	Comparative	Superlative
quiet	quieter	quietest
old	older	oldest young	younger	youngest tall	taller	tallest
fat	fatter	fattest
thin	thinner	thinnest
noisy	noisier	noisiest
pretty	prettier	prettiest

Notice particularly:—

1. With the Positive degree we use “as . . . as.”

Peter is as old as Hans.

Boys are not as quiet as¹ girls.

A man is as old as he feels.

¹ Sometimes with a negative we use so . . . as. E.g., Fritz is not so old as Hans.

2. With the Comparative we use "than", e.g.

Frieda is older than Fritz.

Boys are noisier than girls.

Gretchen is fatter than Ruth.

3. With the Superlative we often use "of" and "the", e.g.

Frieda is the oldest of them all.

Olaf is the tallest of Mr. Priestley's students.

Verbal Nouns

You had these sentences in Lesson 20:

Do they like learning?

They think of nothing but football and climbing and eating and joking and fighting.

I liked fighting when I was a boy.

May I meet her instead of coming to the class?

And here is one from Lesson 19:

Hob doesn't like swimming or football.

The words learning, climbing, eating, joking, fighting, coming are partly verbs. But they are also partly nouns. Climbing, eating, joking, fighting are doing exactly the same work as the noun football.

All these words that are partly a verb and partly a noun and end in -ing are Verbal Nouns (or Gerunds).

EXERCISES

I. Put in the missing words (the first letter of one or two of them is given):

1. May I go to the s— to meet her —— coming to the class?
2. H— l— is she going to stay in London?
3. I have another sister but I haven't — brothers.
4. I have n— brother n— sister.
5. I am luckier than e— of you. Our — is quite a big one.
6. Are your brothers and sisters o— or y— than you?
7. The y— and the s— one is Fritz. Then there are Hans and Peter, the t—.
8. They are exactly — old — each other and exactly — tall — each other.
9. They are both prettier — I am.
10. They think of nothing but football and c— and e— and j— and f—.

II. Answer these questions. Make each answer a sentence.

1. What is the name of Lucille's sister?
2. When is she coming to London? How long is she staying?
3. What does Lucille want to do?
4. Why did Lucille say "That's very kind of you"?
5. How many brothers and sisters has Lucille?
6. How many are there in Frieda's family?
7. How many of them are younger than Frieda? How many are older?
8. What do you know about Jan's family?
9. Who is the youngest of Frieda's brothers and sisters?
10. What do you know about Hans and Peter?
11. What do you know about Gretchen and Ruth?
12. Do Hans and Peter like learning? What do they like?

III. Answer the questions on this "Story without words."

THE MEN AND THE CHAIR

Picture 1. How many men are there in this picture? They are walking in the park. How many chairs are there? Who is nearer the chair, Mr. Brown (the man with the stick) or Mr. Green (the man without the stick)?

Picture 2. Mr. Green is turning his head and he sees Mr. Brown. What is Mr. Green thinking? What is Mr. Brown thinking?

Picture 3. Mr. Green is beginning to walk faster, because he wants to get to the chair before Mr. Brown gets there. Why is Mr. Brown beginning to walk faster?

Picture 4. What are both men doing now? Is Mr. Brown running faster than Mr. Green now? Who do you think will get to the chair first? Why?

Picture 5. Mr. Green wants to stop Mr. Brown, but he can't. Mr. Brown gets to the chair first. Does he look happy?

Picture 6. What is Mr. Brown doing now? Does he look happy? What is Mr. Green holding? What words are on the notice?

Now you know why Mr. Green was going to the chair in Picture 1. Do you? . . . Why was he?

IV. Put in the right form of the adjective.

1. Marie is (old) than Lucille.
2. Lucille is (young) than Marie.
3. Lucille is not as (old) as Marie.
4. Uncle Albert doesn't look a day (old) than forty.

(Reproduced by permission of the Proprietors of "Punch")

5. Fritz is the (small) of the family.
6. Hans and Peter are exactly as (old) as each other and exactly as (tall) as each other.
7. Ruth is (pretty) than Frieda.
8. Ruth's hair is (long) and (fair) than Gretchen's.
9. Hans and Peter are the (noisy) boys that I know.
10. Boys are always (noisy) than girls.

V. Talk about George, Henry and Richard. Say which is older, younger, oldest, youngest, tallest, stronger, fatter, thinnest, etc., etc. Compare their feet, their hair, Henry's left ear and his right ear.

Dictation

Lucille's sister is coming to London and is going to stay for about a fortnight, so Mr. Priestley asks Lucille to bring her sister to dinner one evening at his house. Lucille thinks it is very kind of him to ask them and says she is sure her sister will like meeting Mr. and Mrs. Priestley.

The other students then talk about their brothers and sisters. Jan has neither brother nor sister. Frieda has two sisters and three brothers; two of the brothers are twins. Hob hasn't any brothers or sisters, but he has Uncle Albert and he is never tired of telling you about him.

Composition

1. Write about Frieda's family, or about your own.
2. Write the story of Mr. Brown, Mr. Green and the chair.

LESSON 21 (Twenty-First Lesson)

The students talk together on "Likes and Dislikes"

Scene: MR. PRIESTLEY'S STUDY.

Characters: MR. PRIESTLEY, FRIEDA, PEDRO, JAN, HOB, OLAF, LUCILLE.

MR. PRIESTLEY: Good morning. We will have a general talk this morning with all of you taking part. What things in life do you dislike? Come on, I want to hear your ideas. Frieda, will you begin, please?

FRIEDA: Well, I don't quite know what to say, but, to begin with, I don't like London. I am tired of London.

PEDRO: I remember, sir, a sentence of Dr. Johnson's,¹ "When a man is tired of London he is tired of life." Johnson and Dickens and Shakespeare (at least in his youth) certainly liked London.

JAN: Oh, London's all right, but there are too many people, too many cars, too many buses, too many taxis, and too much noise.

MR. PRIESTLEY: Yes, but, on the other hand, there are good libraries and museums and theatres

I know that you are fond of Shakespeare, Jan; and in one or other of the theatres there is always a Shakespeare play.

NOISE

JAN: Yes, I like Shakespeare's plays, and the library certainly helps me with my work; but when I have time, I like to get out of London and walk in the country and swim or play football.

MR. PRIESTLEY: What do you say to that, Frieda?

FRIEDA: I agree with Jan. I like London for some things, but after a time I get tired of it. My home is a quiet little place in Switzerland among the mountains, and when I am in the noise of London I always want to be among the mountains and the trees, or at some quiet seaside place (there are some lovely ones in England) with the sea and the yellow sand and the sunshine. And in summer when London is hot and burning . . .

HOB: I say, sir, I know a song, "London's Burning." Can I sing it? It begins, "London's . . ."

MR. PRIESTLEY: Wait a minute, Hob. You can sing your song at the end of the lesson, but I want to hear the others speak now. Lucille, do you like these quiet places?

LUCILLE: I certainly do not! I feel half dead in them. I know these quiet seaside places with miles of sand and no one on it except me, two or three noisy children and an old man or two. I once stayed at one of them—but only once. Never again for me! There was one small hotel with a sad-looking waiter. We had uneatable cabbage every day and undrinkable coffee every evening. The people in those places all go to bed at nine o'clock because there is nothing else to do.

MR. PRIESTLEY: Well, Lucille, we certainly know what you don't like. What do you like?

LUCILLE: I like gaiety and life and fun. I want to meet people, young and gay and interesting people. I like good hotels, with good food and good wine. I like theatres with bright music. I like flying, and motoring, if the car is a fast one.

MR. PRIESTLEY: What do you say, Olaf?

OLAF: I don't dance—and I don't want to dance. I enjoy going to the theatre when there is a good play there, a play by Shakespeare or Shaw or Galsworthy. I don't like "bright, musical" rubbish. I like people, people with ideas, people with character. But I don't like a lot of people all together. I love walking and climbing. Jan and I walked in Scotland last year and climbed the mountains there.

JAN: Yes, we enjoyed that holiday very much. We are going again next year, just the two of us; but not in a car and, above all, not in a fast car. I want to see the country, and you can't do that in a fast car; you can only do that when you walk.

OLAF: I hate cars with their noise and dust and smell.

MR. PRIESTLEY: And Pedro, what do you say?

PEDRO: It is very interesting to hear these different speakers and different ideas. I like the mountains and the quiet seaside for a time, for a week or two perhaps, but after that I feel that I want to see men and women—not just trees and mountains and sea, and so I come back to London or Paris or Vienna or Warsaw, to Rio de Janeiro or Buenos Aires. There I find what I want, the really enjoyable things of life, interesting people, books, good music, good plays, good pictures. Those are what I like.

HOB: Oh, talking about pictures, I like going to the pictures,¹ and I like eating and drinking and sleeping and jokes—I think that is all; at least, I can't think of any other things just now.

JAN: Don't you like coming to this class?

HOB: Oh, yes, I like coming here, and I like going away from here. What I don't like is being here.² Can I sing my song now, sir?

MR. PRIESTLEY: Very well, Hob.

² I told you that Hob wasn't polite!

HOB: Thank you. The name of the song is "London's Burning." It is a particular kind of song. They call it "a round." This is how you do it. Two singers, Olaf and you, sir, sing the first line. Then, when you are at the end of that line, two others, Pedro and Lucille, begin at line one, and you and Olaf go on with line two. When Pedro and Lucille are at the end of line one, and Olaf and you at the end of line two, then Frieda and Jan sing line one. Then as Olaf and you get to the last line, I sing the first line. So all of us are then singing four different things. When we get to the end of the song, we go to the beginning again. Is that all right?

MR. PRIESTLEY: Yes, I think so. Here it is on the piano (plays). Now then, begin. (They sing.) "London's burning, etc."

The musical score is written on four staves, each with a different starting point for the lyrics. The first staff begins with a treble clef and a key signature of one flat (B-flat). The notes are quarter notes, and the lyrics are written below the staff. The second staff begins with a whole note, followed by quarter notes. The third staff begins with a whole note, followed by quarter notes. The fourth staff begins with a quarter note, followed by quarter notes.

COMMENTS ON LESSON TWENTY-ONE

Past Tense of Regular Verbs

"Regular" verbs form their past tense by adding -ed or -d to the present tense. You have examples of this in Lesson 21, e.g.

Shakespeare liked London (present tense, like).

I stayed in a quiet place (present tense, stay).

We walked in Scotland and climbed the mountains (walk, climb).

We enjoyed that holiday very much (enjoy).

Here are all the regular verbs from Lesson 1 to Lesson 21:

In all these verbs the pronunciation of the -ed is [id].

Present	Past	Present	Past
act	acted	end	ended
consist	consisted	repeat	repeated
count	counted	taste	tasted
need	needed	wait	waited
depend	depended	want	wanted

In all these verbs the pronunciation of the -ed is [d].

Present	Past	Present	Past
agree	agreed	learn	learned
answer	answered	love	loved bathe	bathed	listen	listened believe	believed	live	lived burn	burned	manage	managed

please	pleased	sew	sewed
play	played	stay	stayed question	questioned	carry	carried ¹
remember	remembered	telephone	telephoned hammer	hammered	show	showed

(3)

In all these verbs the pronunciation of the -ed is [t].

Present	Past	Present	Past
box	boxed	dress	dressed
cook	cooked	finish	finished cross	crossed	help	helped dance	danced	smoke	smoked
kick	kicked	talk	talked

EXERCISES

I. Put in the missing words:

1. I want to hear your —.
2. When a man is — of London he is — of life.
3. In London there are too many — and too much —.
4. But on the other — there are good libraries and —.
5. At one or other of the theatres there is always a Shakespeare —.
6. I like to get — of London and walk in the —.
7. My home is a little — in Switzerland — the mountains.
8. I feel half — in these quiet places with — of sand and no one on it — me.
9. We had — cabbage every day and — coffee every evening.
10. I don't like bright, musical —.
11. I like g— to the pictures and e— and d— and s—.
12. I like c— to the class and I like g— away from here.

II. Name:

1. Three noisy things. 2. Three quiet things. 3. Two noisy places. 4. Two quiet places.

and write a sentence about each.

III. Name six things that you like and six that you dislike.IV. Say what the following people said in Lesson 21:

1. Mr. Priestley. 2. Jan. 3. Frieda. 4. Lucille. 5. Olaf. 6. Hob.

V. Use each of the following words in a sentence:

1. noise. 2. library. 3. museum. 4. home. 5. place.
6. among. 7. a play. 8. sand. 9. except. 10. uneatable.
11. bus. 12. dead. 13. gaiety. 14. certainly. 15. interesting. 16. food. 17. dance. 18. rubbish. 19. enjoyable.
20. piano.

VI. Describe how to sing "a round" (i.e. a song like "London's Burning").VII. Write, at home, about six sentences describing:

1. A quiet place among the mountains.
2. The seaside.
3. A noisy street.

Dictation

Some people like quiet places among the trees and the mountains or by the seaside. There they can get away from the noise of buses and cars, of trains and people. They think that they can only get the really enjoyable things of life there.

Other people like to be in big towns, where there are libraries, museums, theatres, music, good food, good wine and interesting people. They don't feel happy when they are away from these things, and after a week or two they want to get back to them again.

VIII. A Story Without Words

"SILENCE, PLEASE"

Picture 1 (p. 166). Here is Mr. Thompson leaving home in the morning, and saying goodbye to his wife and family.

How many children has he? How many boys? How many girls?

Is the ^{oldest} youngest } one a boy or a girl?

(Reproduced by permission of the Proprietors of "Punch")

Picture 2. This is where Mr. Thompson works. Is a library the same thing as a bookshop? Do they sell books in libraries in England?

Picture 3. What does the notice SILENCE mean?

Picture 4. What are the three men at the table doing? Are they being silent? Mr. Thompson is beginning to look angry.

Picture 5. Mr. Thompson is very angry. What is he pointing at? What do you think he is saying?

Picture 6. Are the men talking now? They are certainly not; they are reading silently.

Pictures 7 and 8. Who are coming into the library now? What are they doing? Does Mr. Thompson like this?

Picture 9. What is Mr. Thompson doing? Is he speaking to the women? Is he standing up or sitting down?

Picture 10. Who are coming into the library now? Are they walking in? Where do you think they are from? What time do they come out of school? (Look at the library clock.)

Picture 11. Mr. Thompson is sending them out of the library. How long were they in it?

Picture 12. Mr. Thompson is looking pleased. Why? (Look at the clock.)

Picture 13. He is leaving the library and is on his way home.

Picture 14. Here he is home again. Do his wife and children look glad to see him?

Picture 15. Mr. Thompson is at home. What is his wife doing? What are his daughters doing? What are his sons doing? What has Mr. Thompson in his hand? . . . in his mouth? What is he doing? Is there a notice saying SILENCE in this room? Is there silence in the room? Could you say in one word what there is? Does Mr. Thompson look angry, or unhappy?

(For picture 15 you will need the new words piano and drum.) Now tell (or write) the story of "Silence, Please."

LESSON 22 (Twenty-Second Lesson)

Comparison of Adjectives (2)

Characters: HOB, PEDRO.

HOB: I say, Pedro, you are a judge of cigarettes aren't you? Just try one of these and tell me if they are good. (Pedro takes one and begins to smoke it.)

PEDRO: Why do you want to know? I didn't know you were interested in cigarettes, good or bad.

HOB: Oh, it's not for me. You see, it's Uncle Albert's birthday next week, and as he likes good cigarettes I am going to send him a hundred of these. I can't think of a better present than a hundred cigarettes like this. Can you?

PEDRO (having now smoked one of them): Yes. Fifty cigarettes like this.

ARE THEY GOOD?

HOB: What do you mean—aren't they good?

PEDRO: Hob, they're terrible. Honestly, I don't remember ~~ever~~ smoking a worse cigarette than that. Where did you get them?

HOB: I saw a notice yesterday in a shop near the place where I live. It said: "The best cigarettes in London, 10/- a hundred."

PEDRO: If these are their best cigarettes, what are their worst ones like!

Look here, Hob. I bought a lot of cigarettes last week. Let me give you a box of them to send to your Uncle Albert. I don't say they are the best cigarettes in London but they are better than these.

UNCLE ALBERT

HOB: Oh, thanks; that's very good of you. Are your cigarettes very expensive? I mean, do they cost more than 10/- a hundred?

PEDRO: Well, they are not the most expensive in London but they are rather more expensive than 10/- a hundred.

OLAF enters

OLAF: I say, does either of you want a ticket for a dance? A friend sent me two tickets, but I don't want to go.

PEDRO: Why not? Don't you dance?

OLAF: I am the world's worst dancer.

HOB: I don't think you can be worse than I am. I was at a dance with a girl once, and I asked her if she knew a worse dancer than me. She didn't say a word, so I asked her again. She said, "I heard you the first time, Hob. I am trying to think of someone who is worse."

OLAF: Well, Pedro, what about you? Will you take the tickets?

PEDRO: Thank you very much. I will go if you are quite sure you don't want the tickets.

OLAF: Want them! If you can go there for me, you are my best friend.

PEDRO: I wonder if Lucille will go with me; she loves dancing, and I don't suppose she will want to work to-morrow night.

HOB: Lucille work! "If your work interferes with your pleasure, give up the work"—that's Lucille's idea of life.

Lucille has too much money and too little sense. Now, I've too little money and too much sense. My Uncle Albert says, "Often the more money you have, the less sense you have."

PEDRO: You are rather hard on Lucille. Do you think she ought to go to fewer dances?

HOB: Yes. She goes to too many dances and too few English lessons. She ought to go to fewer dances and more English lessons.

OLAF: And what about you?

HOB: Oh, I'm the most sensible person here—and Lucille is the least sensible. I go to too few dances—and too many English lessons.

OLAF: Is Lucille a good dancer?

PEDRO: Oh yes, wonderful. I don't know a better. She is quite the best dancer I know.

OLAF: Then you ought to have a very good evening together.

PEDRO: Yes, I think so—but what are you going to do?

OLAF: Oh, perhaps go to the cinema. I finished my homework this afternoon. Did you finish your homework, Hob?

HOB: Yes, all that I'm going to do.

OLAF: Can you come with me, then?

HOB: Certainly. I'm always ready to go to the pictures.

PEDRO: Well, look here. I have two tickets for the new picture at the Plaza Cinema. I don't know what it is like, but here's what the Daily News says about it (reads):

"This is the most wonderful and most exciting picture ever made; more laughable than Charley's Aunt, more moving than Limelight; more expensive than Chu Chin Chow, more beautiful than Romeo and Juliet." I don't believe it, but if you want to go, here are the tickets.

OLAF: Oh! that's fine. Thank you, Pedro.

HOB: Yes, thanks, Pedro. It reminds me of the first time I went to one of these modern cinemas, soon after I came to England. Uncle Albert took me. It was dark when we went in, but we felt our way to our seats and sat down. After about ten minutes Uncle Albert said to me, "Are you enjoying it?" I said, "Yes, but this seat is very uncomfortable I can't sit on it." He looked and said, "You'll be more comfortable if you turn the seat down."

Comparison of Adjectives (2)

In Lesson 20 you had one method of forming the Comparative and Superlative of adjectives, i.e. by adding -er and -est to the positive.

Some adjectives are compared by using more for the Comparative and most for the Superlative, e.g.

Positive	Comparative	Superlative
expensive	more expensive	most expensive wonderful	more wonderful	most wonderful exciting	more exciting	most exciting beautiful	more beautiful	most beautiful comfortable	more comfortable	most comfortable

You will find examples of all these adjectives in the conversation (Lesson 22).

You will also find five adjectives with irregular forms of comparison; they are: good, bad, much, many, little.

Positive	Comparative	Superlative
good	better	best
bad	worse	worst
much	more	most many little	less	least

much many little few

We use much and little as adjectives with singular, "uncountable" nouns, e.g.

Lucille has too much money and too little sense.

We use many and few with plural, "countable" nouns, e.g.

She goes to too many dances and too few English lessons.

In London there are too many cars and too much noise.

A few means "some, but not many," e.g.

There are a few apples on the tree.

A little means "some, but not much," e.g.

I have a little money in my pocket.

Few means "not many"; little means "not much." In spoken English, "a lot of" is used for both "much" and "many" except in interrogative and negative sentences.

EXERCISES

I. Turn the following into the past tense:

1. We like our holiday in Scotland.
2. He walks all day without feeling tired.
3. They often climb the big mountain.
4. He answers every question well.
5. We bathe in the sea every day.
6. The teacher always counts the students at the beginning of the lesson.
7. Lizzie always cooks the dinner well.
8. Hob generally burns the potatoes when he cooks them.
9. Lucille dances almost every evening.
10. Pedro looks handsome; he always dresses well.
11. My sister lives in a quiet little place in Norway.
12. The minute hand of the clock moves from one to two in five minutes.
13. Before the lesson the teacher opens the window and closes the door.
14. Jan's good work always pleases Mr. Priestley very much.
15. They play football every day of their holidays.
16. At every lesson the teacher questions the class on their homework.
17. For my holidays I generally stay at the seaside.
18. Pedro smokes thirty cigarettes a day.
19. Susan works in the house all day, and studies Spanish every evening.
20. Jan sometimes smokes a cigarette as he waits for the train.

II. Put in "much" or "many," "little" or "few" where there is a place for it. Give the reason in each case for your choice.

much many

1. There are too — buses in London.
2. I haven't — time for study.

3. Please don't make so — noise.
4. Jan doesn't know — people in London and hasn't — friends there.
5. I don't like too — butter on my bread.

little few

6. Hob said he had too — money and went to too — dances.
7. There are only a — cigarettes in the box; I had too — time to buy any to-day.
8. There is only a — tea left in the teapot.
9. Your homework is better; you have — mistakes than usual.
10. Jan gave me a — help with my work.

III. In the conversation on pp. 168–172 find as many examples as you can of the irregular comparison of adjectives and the comparison with “more” and “most.”

IV. Give the comparative and superlative of the following:

1. beautiful. 2. comfortable. 3. bright. 4. correct. 5. friendly.
6. difficult. 7. heavy. 8. helpless. 9. unkind. 10. careful.
11. quiet. 12. happy.

V. In place of the adjectives in brackets put the correct form, adding “more” or “most” where necessary:

1. What (nice) present is there than a box of chocolates?
2. What (good) present is there than a box of cigarettes?
3. My cigarettes are not the (expensive) in London.
4. This is the (wonderful) and (beautiful) picture that has ever come out of Hollywood.
5. Frieda is (old) than Hans; she is the (old) of the family.
6. Summer is (warm) than winter.

7. Summer is the (warm) of the four seasons.
8. London is (big) than Manchester.
9. Manchester is (small) than London.
10. The aeroplane is (fast) than the train.
11. This picture is (beautiful) than Romeo and Juliet and is (moving) than Limelight.
12. The train is (slow) than the aeroplane.
13. Frieda is (pretty) than her sister.
14. Lucille is (slim) than she was a year ago.
15. Winter in London is (foggy) than in Paris.
16. These are the (bad) cigarettes I have ever smoked.
17. "The (good) cigarettes in London, 10/- a hundred."
18. If these are the (good) cigarettes in London, the (bad) must be terrible.
19. I think I am the (bad) dancer in the world.
20. You are not (bad) than I am.
21. Your work is much (bad) than I thought.

LESSON 23 (Twenty-Third Lesson)

"The Cat that caused a wedding"

(Practice in the past tense of regular verbs—and some irregular ones)

HOB: I went to the wedding of my old friend Tom Bailey and Miss Helen Jones last week. I enjoyed it very much. It was a good wedding with lots to eat and drink and there were some bright, lively people there. Tom is a lucky fellow. His wife is a very pretty girl, young and gay and interesting, and clever too. Oh yes, he is a lucky man. And it all happened because of a cat.

JAN: What do you mean? How could a cat cause a wedding?

HOB: Yes, it sounds funny, but it is true. It happened like this:—

Helen lived in the next house to Tom, and Tom was soon head over heels¹ in love with Helen—and I am not surprised. He used to look at her over the garden wall; he talked to her one day for a short time; he walked to the station with her once or twice; and one evening, one great evening in his life, he went to a Christmas party and danced with her.

But Tom isn't much of a talker (he's different from me), and when he was with Helen he seemed to have nothing to say. He wanted to say such a lot, but the words just dried up and he could never say anything.

Then one day he walked out into the garden and saw Helen on the other side of the wall looking very unhappy and worried. Tom said, "What is the matter?" and she pointed to the big tree in her garden and answered, "..."

(Reproduced by permission of the Editor of "The Humorist")

But I won't tell you what she said. Here it is in pictures. I asked a friend—an artist—to draw it for me. His pictures will tell you the story better than I can, and you will see how a cat caused a wedding.

NOTE: If you can't understand the story from the pictures you will find it in words in Exercise III, page 183. These words and phrases will help you to understand and then to tell the story:

up the tree; can't get down; carry the cat down; the cat is safe; it gets down safely; puts her arms round his neck; to kiss (gives him a kiss); fish.

LESSON 24 (Twenty-Four Lesson)

The Simple Past Tense

In Lesson 23 you have other examples of the past tense of regular verbs, e.g.

happened, caused, surprised, seemed,
dried (verb to dry), worried (verb to worry).

(In all these the pronunciation of -ed is [d].)

sounded, pointed.

(Pronunciation of -ed here is [id].)

There are also some "irregular" verbs. Irregular verbs are verbs that do not form their past tense by adding d, ed or t. Hob uses the past tense of three of them:

I went to the wedding of my friend.

He saw Helen on the other side of the wall.

Tom said, "What is the matter?"

The other irregular verbs in that lesson are eat, drink, draw, understand, put, find, tell, get, give.

Present Tense	Past Tense	Present Tense	Past Tense
go	went	drink	drank
see	saw	draw	drew say	said [sed]	understand	understood eat	ate	put	put give	gave	get	got find	found	tell	told

The Simple Past Tense Interrogative

To form the Simple Past Tense Interrogative of all verbs except to be, can, and one or two others,¹ we use the past tense of do (i.e. did) with the infinitive of the verb, e.g.

Affirmative

Shakespeare liked London.
 Lucille stayed at a quiet place.
 Tom danced with Helen.
 He walked to the station.
 Hob went to the wedding.
 Tom saw Helen in the garden.

The artist drew the picture.
 They understood the picture.
 She put her arms round his neck.
 Hob ate a good dinner.
 He drank the wine.

Interrogative

Did Shakespeare like London?
 Did Lucille stay at a quiet place?
 Did Tom dance with Helen?
 Did he walk to the station?
 Did Hob go to the wedding?
 Did Tom see Helen in the garden?

Did the artist draw the picture?
 Did they understand the picture?
 Did she put her arms round his neck?
 Did Hob eat a good dinner?
 Did he drink the wine?

The answers to these questions are: "Yes, he did," or "Yes, they did," or "Yes, she did," etc.

¹ The same as those in the footnote on p. 110.

The Simple Past Tense Negative

To form the Simple Past Tense Negative of all verbs except to be, to have, can,¹ etc., we use the verb did with not and the infinitive of the verb, e.g.

Affirmative

Pedro liked London.
Jan stayed at the Devon Hotel.
Tom danced with Helen.
He walked to the station.
Hob went to the wedding.
Tom saw Helen in the garden.

The artist drew the picture.
They understood the picture.

She put her arms round Tom's neck.

Negative

Frieda did not like London.
Lucille did not stay at the Devon Hotel.
Hob did not dance with Helen.
I did not walk to the station.
Jan did not go to the wedding.
We did not see Helen in the garden.
I did not draw the picture.
They did not understand the picture.
She did not put her arms round Hob's neck.

In conversation we often shorten did not to didn't, e.g.

Hob ate a good dinner.
He drank the wine.

Tom didn't eat a good dinner.
He didn't drink the wine.

The negative answer to questions in the past tense is, "No, he didn't," "No, they didn't," etc.

¹ The same as those in the footnote on p. 110.

used to

Note the idiom used to on page 177.

He used to look at her over the garden wall.

We use this for a repeated action in the past, generally with the idea that the action is finished now, e.g.

I used to go to the class every day (but I don't now).

He used to have dinner at that hotel (but he doesn't now).

She used to speak English badly (but she doesn't now).

PRONUNCIATION DRILL (Revision)

In these "revision" exercises, you are given some words that may cause difficulty. In this (and in all revision drill), after you have practised the pronunciation, use each of the words in a sentence.

air, answer, any, many, bread, head, meant, breakfast, meal, pleasant, real, ready, aunt, buy, character, comfortable, enough, ate, light, eye.

EXERCISES

I. Turn the following into the Simple Past Tense:

1. This seems quite easy.
2. He never dries his hands carefully on the towel.
3. My cat likes fish.
4. That sounds funny.
5. The students go to the class every week-day.
6. I often see aeroplanes flying over my house.

7. I can see the aeroplane in the sky.
8. The students are in Mr. Priestley's study.
9. We understand the story quite well.
10. The children eat too many ices.
11. This artist draws very good pictures.
12. Lucille never drinks tea in the morning.
13. It is not often that Hob goes to a wedding.
14. That is what Hob says.

II. Make three sentences, each with the idiom "used to."

III. Write the following in the Past Tense:

Helen points to the tree, and Tom looks up there. He sees Helen's cat high up in the tree. It can't get down and is looking as unhappy as Helen is. Tom goes over the garden wall and climbs up the tree and carries the cat down safely. Helen is so pleased to get her cat again that she puts her arms round Tom's neck and gives him a kiss. This pleases Tom very much. This is certainly what he likes. He wants the cat to climb up the tree every day. So that night he waits until it is dark and then he climbs the tree. He carries a hammer and nails and a fish in his hand. He knows that cats like fish so he nails the fish to the tree. If the cat goes up the tree the next day, he hopes to get another kiss.

IV. Make these sentences interrogative:

1. This work seemed easy.
2. He dried his hands carefully.
3. The cat liked fish.
4. That sounded funny.
5. The students went to the class yesterday.
6. He saw the aeroplanes flying over London.
7. He could see the aeroplane in the sky.
8. The students were in Mr. Priestley's study.

9. They understood the story very well.
10. The children ate too many ices.
11. This artist drew a picture of the story.
12. Hob drank tea for breakfast.
13. Hob went to the wedding.
14. The cows ate all the cabbages.
15. The boys saw the sun rise this morning.
16. The girls put their books on my desk.
17. The cat went up the tree.
18. Tom saw the cat near the top of the tree.
19. Helen put her arms round Tom's neck and kissed him.
20. Hob said that.

(This exercise will help you with No. 1)

V. Make all the sentences in Exercise IV negative.

VI. Answer these questions (a) affirmatively,¹ (b) negatively:

1. Did he write the letter?
2. Did he draw the picture?
3. Did the ladies drink cups of tea?
4. Did the girls put their books in the desk?
5. Did the cat go up the tree?
6. Did the boys see the sun rise?
7. Did they understand the story?
8. Did you understand the story?
9. Could you understand the story?
10. Did the children eat ices?
11. Were the students in the study?
12. Did the cows eat all the cabbages?
13. Did you see my brother last week?
14. Did you go to the theatre on Friday?

¹ You can answer them with the short conversational answers: "Yes, he did," "No, he didn't," "Yes, I could," "No, I couldn't," etc., and then, for practice in the use of the verb, with the full answer, e.g. Question: "Did he write the letter?" Answer (affirmatively): "Yes, he wrote the letter"; (negatively): "No, he didn't write the letter."

15. Were you at the theatre on Friday?
16. Did he dry his hands on the towel?
17. Did he see the aeroplane in the sky?
18. Did the dog eat the ice-cream?
19. Did you go to play football yesterday?
20. Did he drink the wine?

VII. Turn each of the following into the Simple Present Tense:

1. He wrote a letter.
2. The artist drew a picture.
3. The ladies drank cups of tea.
4. The cat went up the tree.
5. We understood the story.
6. The boy ate the ice-cream.
7. I saw your brother in the field.
8. Henry went to London every day.
9. The boy put his books on the table.
10. The men put their books on the table.
11. They wrote letters from South America.
12. She wrote letters from South America.
13. They went to the theatre every week.
14. He went to the theatre every week.
15. We all understood this lesson.

LESSON 25 (Twenty-Fifth Lesson)

Irregular Verbs. Past Tense Negative and Interrogative

Scene: MR. PRIESTLEY'S STUDY BEFORE THE LESSON.
FRIEDA, LUCILLE, HOB.

FRIEDA: How did you come here this morning, Lucille? Did you come by car?

LUCILLE: No, something went wrong with my car last night, so I walked here.

FRIEDA: So did I. I came down Bond Street and Oxford Street. Did you?

LUCILLE: Yes.

FRIEDA: Did you see the dresses in Harridge's? They had a lot of them in brown and grey. I thought they were very nice.

LUCILLE: I looked at the windows for a few minutes and I saw the dresses, but I didn't like any of them.

FRIEDA: Didn't you? Why not?

LUCILLE: I didn't like the cut or the style of any of them, and I like bright colours.

FRIEDA: Of course, your taste isn't my taste. We are quite different, and what suits you doesn't suit me.

LUCILLE: I think your clothes always look very nice; they are quiet and in very good taste. Did you buy these clothes in London?

FRIEDA: No, I bought them in Berne last summer.

Do you buy your clothes in London?

LUCILLE: No, I generally buy them in Paris.

FRIEDA: Isn't it very expensive to buy them in Paris?

LUCILLE: No, it's about the same as in London. So when I want new clothes I go to Paris.

HOB: And how often is that?

LUCILLE: Hello, Hob! I didn't know you were listening. You want to know how often I buy a new dress? Oh, about once every month or six weeks.

HOB: Do your clothes only last a month? Why don't you buy good clothes? My suits last six years, not six weeks.

LUCILLE: Oh, you don't understand. A woman must have new clothes. She can't wear the same old things time after time.

HOB: Why must she have new clothes? I always think that a woman believes what she wants to believe, not what is really true.

LUCILLE: Isn't Hob clever to-day? Have you any other great thoughts, Hob, to give us? I really think that you ought to write a book: What I Know About Women.

HOB: You can laugh if you like, but I know what I am talking about. You are like the woman in the story——

LUCILLE: Don't tell us that you know a story about a woman who only believed what she wanted to believe.

HOB: Yes, I do. She went to a doctor because she wanted to believe that she was not very well. The doctor said, "You must take cold baths, go out in the fresh air and wear light clothes."

LUCILLE: And didn't she believe what he told her?

HOB: Well, she went home and said to her husband, "The doctor says that I must go for a holiday to the seaside for sea-bathing, then to the mountains for mountain air, and I must get a lot of new, light dresses."

PEDRO and JAN enter

HOB: Hello! We were just talking about clothes.

JAN: I saw in the newspaper to-day that now is a good time to buy your suit for next summer.

HOB: I already have my suit for next summer.

JAN: You are very quick. When did you buy it?

HOB: Two years ago last summer. This is it!

A woman came to our house last week wanting to buy old clothes. She said to me, "What do you do with your old clothes?"

HOB'S OLD CLOTHES

JAN: And what did you say?

HOB: I said, "I take them off and leave them on a chair at night, and put them on again next morning."

JAN: I want a new suit, Pedro; can you tell me the name of a good tailor? You are always very well-dressed.

PEDRO: I got this suit at Bernard Hall's in Savile Row. He's a very good man. I can give you the address if you want it.

JAN: Thanks! Is he expensive?

PEDRO: I don't think that he is expensive, for such a good tailor. I paid thirty guineas¹ for this suit.

JAN: That is rather too much for me. I generally pay about ten or eleven pounds.

HOB: And these are the clever fellows. They think that I am not clever; but I didn't pay twenty guineas for this suit; I didn't pay nine or ten pounds. I paid three pounds ten shillings—and it lasts me just as long.

PRONUNCIATION DRILL

Here are just two sounds for practice, [ɔi] and [iə].

5. What kind of colours does Lucille like?
6. What was it about the dresses that Lucille didn't like?
7. Does the same thing suit all people?
8. Where did Lucille buy her clothes?

9. Where did Frieda buy her clothes?
10. Did Lucille say it was very expensive to buy clothes in Paris?
11. How often does Lucille buy a new dress?
12. What was Hob's "great thought" about women?
13. What did the doctor tell the woman?
14. What did the woman tell her husband?
15. When did Hob buy his suit for next summer?
16. Where did Pedro buy his suit?
17. How much did he pay for it?
18. Did he think that his tailor was expensive?
19. What did Jan pay for his suit?
20. What did Hob pay for his suit?

IV. With one student as the doctor, one as the woman, and another as her husband, tell Hob's story.

Dictation

If you want a good suit you must go to a good tailor. Of course a good tailor is rather expensive. You must pay, in England, from ten to thirty pounds, but I like to get a really good suit. You pay, of course, for the cut and style, but a good suit lasts for a long time. It wears well and you always look well-dressed in it.

LESSON 26 (Twenty-Sixth Lesson)

Comments on Lesson 25

IRREGULAR VERBS (continued)

In Lesson 25 there are some more examples of the past tense of irregular verbs, e.g.

I came down Bond Street.

I thought the dresses were very nice.

I bought these clothes in Berne.

I got this suit in Savile Row.

I paid thirty guineas for it.

The other new irregular verbs in the lesson are cut, wear, write, know, take, leave.

Present Tense	Past Tense	Present Tense	Past Tense
come	came	wear	wore think	thought	write	wrote
buy	bought	know	knew
pay	paid	take	took
cut	cut	leave	left
bring	brought	tell	told

Verbs and Nouns

In Lesson 25 cut was a noun:

I didn't like the cut of the dresses.

Here it is as a verb:

A bad tailor can never cut a suit well.

In the same way dress, address, thought, can be nouns or verbs. Examples:

- (a) She always dresses well (VERB).
- (b) Her dresses are very expensive (NOUN).
- (a) Please address this letter for me (VERB).
- (b) I don't know the right address (NOUN).
- (a) I thought that the dresses were very nice (VERB).
- (b) Hob gave us another "great thought" to-day (NOUN).

But note that the noun suit and the verb to suit are quite different in meaning.

- (a) I bought this suit at a good tailor's (NOUN).
- (b) She looks very nice in that dress; it suits her very well.
(VERB).

Clothes, cloth

Cloth, pronounced [klɒθ], is a material, e.g.

That is a good piece of cloth. Make a suit from it for me.
The tailor cuts the cloth.

The tailor makes clothes, pronounced [klaʊðz], from the piece of cloth.

Note that clothes is always plural and takes a plural verb:

His clothes are always very good.

Light

In Lesson 15 you had the word light as an opposite of dark, e.g.

Frieda's hair is light brown, Jan's is dark brown.

On page 188 light has quite a different meaning. There it is the opposite of heavy.

The Possessive Case

In the sentences:

Did you see those dresses in Harridge's?

I got this suit at Bernard Hall's.

I must go to the tailor's for my suit.

we use the 's here because the word "shop" is understood, i.e.

in Harridge's (shop).

at Bernard Hall's (shop).

"So did I"

In Lesson 17 you had the construction:

"I get up at half past seven—and so does my husband."

In Lesson 25 you have the same construction in the past tense:

"I walked here." "So did I."

face, family, figure, fight, right, night, bright, fire, first Friday, friend, fruit, gaiety, go, gone, grey, guinea.

9. They understand everything that we say to them.
10. I believe what you tell me.
11. The tailor cuts the suit well, and so I wear it for a long time.
12. He can't understand what you say.
13. Jan pays ten pounds and he gets a good suit.
14. Frieda writes the letter and addresses it to her sister.
15. I see the trees of Hyde Park when I go to the window and look through it.

IV. Use each of the following in a sentence, (a) as a noun, (b) as a verb:

1. dress. 2. address. 3. cut. 4. thought. 5. suit.

15. The waiter put some plates on the table.
16. Hob ate a good dinner.
17. He drank a cup of coffee.
18. The cat went up the tree.
19. Frieda bought some clothes in Berne.
20. Hob took a long time to answer the question.

VIII. Put in the word omitted:

Frieda's hair is light, but Pedro's is —.

When the sun goes down it is quite —.

One book is quite light, but twenty of them are —.

IX. Write the story of "The Men and the Chair" (p. 155) in the past tense. Begin: "Yesterday Mr. Green and Mr. Brown were walking in the park. They said . . ."

LESSON 27 (Twenty-Seventh Lesson)

The students talk together on "Food"

Scene: MR. PRIESTLEY'S STUDY.

HOB, MR. PRIESTLEY, OLAF, LUCILLE, FRIEDA, JAN, PEDRO.

HOB: Can we have a talk this morning, sir, about food, about breakfasts and lunches and dinners, and so on? It is a subject that interests me very much.

MR. PRIESTLEY: Certainly, Hob. But Lizzie could tell you more about this. She is the person who cooks our meals.

HOB: What did she cook for breakfast to-day, sir?

MR. PRIESTLEY: We had fruit, boiled eggs, toast, bread and butter, marmalade, and tea.

OLAF: I had a breakfast this morning that I enjoyed very much; a cereal,¹ bacon and eggs, marmalade, toast, coffee. I think there is nothing like an English breakfast.

LIZZIE THE COOK

¹ Cereal = a food made from grain, e.g. "Corn Flakes".

LUCILLE: No bacon and eggs in the morning for me, thank you. My breakfast is always rolls and coffee.

FRIEDA: You can't drink English coffee, can you?

LUCILLE: Luckily, at my hotel, there is a cook who is French; so I can drink the coffee.

MR. PRIESTLEY: So you don't like English coffee?

LUCILLE: Oh, no! English people can't make good coffee.

OLAF: That's true. Their bacon, their bread, their butter, their tea are always good; their coffee is always bad.

MR. PRIESTLEY: Where must I go to get good coffee?

LUCILLE: Come to France; we always make good coffee there.

JAN: I like Polish coffee; our coffee is always good.

OLAF: Come and taste the coffee that we make in Sweden. There is none like it.

FRIEDA: We make lovely coffee in Switzerland—coffee with thick cream in it.

MR. PRIESTLEY: Pedro, you know many countries. You must give us your ideas.

PEDRO: Well, the coffee of South America is really first-class. Then I got some Egyptian coffee in Cairo that I enjoyed very much. I drank some good coffee in Turkey. The Dutch know how to make coffee. It is always good in Portugal.

MR. PRIESTLEY: And what about England?

PEDRO: In England I always drink tea.

MR. PRIESTLEY: Thank you. I now know where I can get good coffee.

ALL THE STUDENTS: Where is it, sir? It is in my country, isn't it?

MR. PRIESTLEY: It seems to be in all countries except England.

HOB: Do you know the story about the man who was having breakfast in an English hotel? He took a drink from his cup and then said to the waiter, "Waiter, is this tea or coffee?"

The waiter said, "Can't you tell the difference, sir, by the taste?"

"No," the man said, "I can't."

"Well," answered the waiter, "if you can't tell the difference, what does it matter which it is?"

PEDRO: I think there is a sameness about English dinners that makes them uninteresting—boiled potatoes, roast beef that is often burned or not cooked enough, cabbage that is watery¹ and tasteless.

OLAF: Well, you can say what you like, but give me my English breakfast and English food generally.

JAN: I think Olaf is right. Good roast beef, nicely-browned roast potatoes, and . . .

HOB (interrupting): I know a song about roast beef. (Sings.)

I am sorry that is the only line that I know.

LUCILLE: We are not sorry. The line that you sang was quite enough.

JAN: As I was saying when Hob interrupted me, where can you get roast beef like English beef?

OLAF: Or mutton like English mutton?¹

PEDRO: Or soup like English hotel soup. Nowhere, thank heaven!

HOB: Do you know the story of the man who was having soup in an English hotel? The waiter gave it to him and then, looking out of the window, said to the man, "It looks like rain, sir."²

IT LOOKS LIKE RAIN, SIR

"Yes," said the man, as he took a spoonful of soup, "and it tastes like rain, too."

¹ He could add, "or Scotch beef, or Welsh mutton."

² "It looks like rain," means "It looks as if it is going to rain." The man gives the words another meaning, i.e. "The soup looks as if it is rain, and tastes as if it is rain."

JAN: Soup doesn't matter to me if I get some good beef and potatoes and then some bread and cheese and butter. After a lunch like that, I can work all day.

HOB: After a lunch like that, I can sleep all afternoon.

PEDRO: The hotel that I am staying at is really quite good. We have . . .

HOB (again interrupting): Talking about hotels, do you know this story about King George III of England? He was in the country one day and stopped at a small hotel for lunch. He wasn't very hungry, so he had only two boiled eggs. He ate them and asked for the bill. The landlord gave him the bill—two pounds. The King said, "What! Two pounds for two eggs? Eggs must be very scarce here."

THE BILL

"No, sir," said the landlord, "eggs are not scarce—but kings are."

LUCILLE: Oh, Hob, that's an old story. You will see it in every English book for foreign students. We can't laugh at that.

HOB: Oh, you ought to be like my Uncle Ben.

LUCILLE: Why, what is so good about him?

HOB: I'll tell you. Here is a little poem that I wrote about him and his wife Berta:

UNCLE BEN

AUNT BERTA

"A dear old man is my Uncle Ben,
He knows the joke but he laughs again.
He's quite unlike his wife, Aunt Berta,
Who looks as if the joke has hurt her."

19. What did Lucille say about Hob's story?
20. What was Hob's answer?

III. Use each of these words in a sentence:

- | | | |
|----------------|--------------|-------------|
| 1. food | 6. taste | 11. scarce |
| 2. marmalade | 7. watery | 12. joke |
| 3. luckily | 8. burned | 13. laugh |
| 4. cream | 9. interrupt | 14. hurt |
| 5. first-class | 10. landlord | 15. hungry. |

IV. Say, or write, four things that you have for breakfast and four that you have for dinner.

V. Describe how to make coffee or tea:

VI. With two students to take the parts of the waiter and the man with the cup of tea (coffee), repeat the conversation of Hob's story.

VII. Do the same, (a) with the waiter and the man taking soup, (b) with George III and the landlord.

VIII. Without your book repeat Hob's "poem."

Dictation

(Mr. Priestley speaking)

Food is a subject that interests me. I like food that is good and well-cooked. I dislike as much as Pedro does watery cabbage, soup that looks—and tastes—like rain, and beef or mutton that is burned or not cooked enough. But when you get real English beef and mutton, bread and cheese, eggs and bacon, there is no food so good anywhere. I don't know any apple that has a better taste than a good English one, and no other cup of tea ever tastes as good to me as tea that is made in England.

I can quite believe that the soup that Pedro had at the hotel hadn't much taste; but I am sure that if Jan and Olaf had dinner in the home of any ordinary Scottish family when they were walking in Scotland, they had good soup. They will never taste better vegetable soup¹ than they had then.

I know that coffee is not good in most English hotels. But it is good in many English homes when it is made with fresh coffee by people who know how to make it, and, so that you can see that this is true, my wife is going to bring us all coffee in my study to-morrow morning at eleven o'clock.

LESSON 28 (Twenty-Eighth Lesson)

Irregular Verbs

There are some more irregular verbs in Lesson 27, viz. make, tell, sing, sleep, and hurt. Here is the past tense of each of them and of some other irregular verbs used in Lessons 1-27:

Present Tense	Past Tense	Present Tense	Past Tense make	made	read	read [red]
sing	sang	rise	rose sleep	slept	run	ran hurt	hurt	send	sent begin	began	sit	sat
feed	fed	speak	spoke fly	flew	teach	taught hear	heard

ought

On page 204 you have the sentence:

You ought to be like my Uncle Ben.

Ought is a defective verb. This is the only form that it has. It has no past tense, no present participle, etc. You cannot use any verb like shall, have, be, etc., in front of it. So, I shall ought; he has ought; I was ought are all WRONG.

Its negative is ought not,¹ e.g.

You ought not to make that mistake.

Its interrogative is ought I? ought you? ought he? etc.

Here are some other examples of its use:

If Mr. Priestley told you to study that lesson, you ought to do it.

He paid a high price for his suit; it ought to be a good one.

After living in England for two years, you ought to know the language well.

Ought you to be here to-day? I thought you had a holiday.

I oughtn't to tell you the answer to the question, but as it is rather a hard one, I will.

must

On page 203 you had this sentence:

Eggs must be very scarce here.

Must also is a defective verb.

It has no other form except this.

Its negative is *mustn't*². Its interrogative is must I? must he? etc.

VERB "FAMILIES"
GIVE	GIVES	GAVE	GIVEN	GIVING
WALK	WALKS	WALKED	WALKING
CUT	CUTS	CUTTING
CAN	COULD OUGHT MUST
No English verb has more than five parts ³

² But often it is needn't and in some cases can't. Must is treated fully in Book IV.

³ Except be which has: be, am, is, are, was, were, been, being.

It has two meanings. The sentence above shows one meaning; here are some other examples of the other:

You must give us your ideas, Pedro. (page 200).

You must not smoke here.

You must keep your book clean.

You must take cold baths, go out in the fresh air and wear light clothes. (page 188).

Where must I go to get good coffee? (page 200).

He must be a clever man; he knows so much about everything.

A woman must have new clothes. (page 187).

You must come and see us some evening.

Must you go so early? It is only nine o'clock.

Note the use of the idiom it doesn't matter on pages 201 and 203.

If you can't tell the difference, what does it matter which it is? Soup doesn't matter to me if I get some good beef and potatoes.

Other examples:

Oh, no, it doesn't matter at all.

Don't worry about little things like that. They don't matter.

There is another common idiom with matter, i.e. What is the matter? e.g.

Tom said, "What is the matter?" (p. 178).

Other examples:

What's the matter with this coffee? It tastes like tea.

What's the matter with you? You look ill.

taste

Taste can be (1) a noun, (2) a verb, e.g.

1. This tea has a nice taste.

I like the taste of these cigarettes.

I can tell the difference by the taste.

2. As a verb it can have two uses:

(a) a person tastes a thing, e.g.

The man tasted his soup.

Taste your coffee and tell me if it is good.

(b) a thing has a certain taste; it seems to be something that, perhaps, you didn't expect it to be, e.g.

The soup tasted like water.

This coffee tastes like cabbage-water.

This cheese tastes like chalk.

This soup tastes good.

like

Note the uses of like.

This tea tastes like coffee.

After a lunch like that I can sleep all afternoon.

John is very like his father.

What does Mr. Priestley look like? Oh, he is tall and handsome and rather thin.

Hob thinks that swimming and football are too much like hard work (p. 141).

And as a verb:

I like bacon and eggs for breakfast.

I don't like this coffee.

You can say what you like.

PRONUNCIATION DRILL

A number of the words you have learned in this book contain the sound [u:], [u] or [uə] with the sound [j] before it. Here are some words for practice in these sounds:

you, new, few, newspaper, suit, use, knew, beauty, music, Tuesday, future, student, useful, Europe, beautiful, regular, continue, superlative, particular, January, university, singular.

EXERCISES

I. Complete the following:

Infinitive	Past Tense	Past Tense Interrogative	Past Tense Negative make tell sing sleep hurt begin feed fly hear read rise run send sit speak teach

II. Make the following sentences (1) interrogative, (2) negative.

1. Hob sang a song.
2. Lizzie made the dinner.
3. They slept after that big dinner.
4. He went to Tom's wedding.
5. The students began work at nine o'clock.
6. Hob told some¹ stories to the students.
7. She fed the animals on the farm early in the morning.
8. They flew across the Atlantic in an aeroplane.
9. The sun rose at five o'clock in the morning.
10. Pedro sent some¹ cigarettes to his friend.
11. The dog ran all round the field.
12. Mr. Priestley sat reading until one o'clock.
13. The students heard some¹ stories to-day.
14. They spoke to Mr. Priestley about food.
15. Mr. Priestley taught the students to-day.

III. Make three sentences with the word must in them, and three with ought.

IV. Make sentences using taste (1) as a noun, (2) as a verb, and using like (1) as a verb, (2) as a preposition.

V. Make sentences using matter in two different ways.

VI. Write the story of "Silence, Please" (p. 166) in the past tense. Begin: "Yesterday morning Mr. Thompson left home . . ."

LESSON 29 (Twenty-Ninth Lesson)

The Present Perfect Tense (I)

Scene: MR. PRIESTLEY'S STUDY BEFORE THE LESSON.

PEDRO, LUCILLE, FRIEDA.

LUCILLE: Mr. Priestley has a lot of books in his study, hasn't he?

PEDRO: Yes, and what is more, he has read them all. When I talk to him about books I feel that he has read every book that I have ever heard of.

FRIEDA: Here are some modern English books. Have you read any of them, Lucille?

LUCILLE: No, I don't think I have. I have read the books that most students read in their school-days, you know, some of Dickens and Scott and Thackeray, a few plays of Shakespeare, some poems of Byron, stories by Wilde, but I have not read much since I left school. You have read a good many modern English books, haven't you, Pedro?

PEDRO: Yes, I'm fond of English writers and have read quite a lot.

FRIEDA: Who are the well-known modern writers?

PEDRO: Oh, there's Galsworthy and Wells and Bennett and Kipling and D. H. Lawrence. They are not quite modern, of course; they are the writers of "yesterday" perhaps, but I like their work.

FRIEDA: Who are the writers of "to-day" in England?

PEDRO: I think, as novelists, Aldous Huxley and Virginia Woolf; as poets, T. S. Eliot and W. H. Auden.

LUCILLE: I have never heard of them. Are they very well known?

PEDRO: Quite well known, but if you want the really well known ones, there are J. B. Priestley and Somerset Maugham and Graham Greene.

FRIEDA: I have read Priestley's Good Companions.

LUCILLE: I have seen it at the cinema; it was a good picture.

FRIEDA: I know Somerset Maugham's short stories, but I haven't heard of Graham Greene. What has he written?

PEDRO: He made his name with The Power and the Glory. After that he wrote The Heart of the Matter. Read them both if you can get them. They are interesting books.

FRIEDA: Uncle John generally asks me what I want for a Christmas present. If he does this year, I can ask him for one of them.

HOB and JAN enter

HOB: Or both!

LUCILLE: Hello! are you here?

HOB: Yes. You were talking about books for Christmas presents, weren't you? Have you heard the story of the two girls who wanted to give a Christmas present to a friend but didn't know what to send? One said, "Let's give her a clock."

"What's the use of giving her a clock," said the other. "She doesn't want that. She has got a clock. I think we ought to give her a book."

"But," said the first girl, "she has got a book, too, hasn't she?"

FRIEDA: Who are the well-known modern writers of plays in England?

PEDRO: There's Galsworthy and Somerset Maugham, Rattigan, Christopher Fry, Noel Coward—and, of course, Shaw.

HOB: Who's Shaw? I've never heard of him.

LUCILLE: Oh! Hob, everyone has heard of Shaw. He's an Englishman who has written plays and thinks the two great English writers are: first Shaw; second, perhaps, Shakespeare.

FRIEDA: He's an Irishman, not an Englishman. He doesn't like England and the English. He has said that time and again in his plays.

PEDRO: That's his Irish joke. He says he doesn't like England but he has lived¹ in it, not in Ireland, for fifty years and English people have laughed at him and his plays, and have paid him very well for telling them that he doesn't like them. Shaw is a very rich man now.

HOB: I know an Irish joke. It's about an Irish porter at Dublin station. A passenger went up to him and said, "Look here! you have got six clocks and they all tell different times. Now what's the good of that?"

"And what," said the Irishman, "is the good of having six clocks if they all tell the same time?"

¹ Shaw died in 1950.

PEDRO: I have never known anyone with so many stories as you, Hob. But to come back to Shaw.

Have you seen any of his plays?

FRIEDA: No, I haven't. Have you?

PEDRO: Yes, I've seen a good many. One of them, St. Joan, is on at the Old Vic Theatre at present. If you want to see it, I have two tickets here that you and Jan can have.

FRIEDA AND JAN: Oh, thank you very much! That's very nice of you.

PEDRO: Not at all. I am very pleased that you can use them. Ah! here comes Mr. Priestley.

MR. PRIESTLEY: Good morning, everybody.

ALL: Good morning, sir.

MR. PRIESTLEY: Have you all done your homework? Give me your books now, please. . . . Where is your homework, Hob?

HOB: I have left my book at home, sir. I am sorry.

After the Lesson

FRIEDA, JAN, HOB.

FRIEDA: Has Mr. Priestley corrected your homework, Jan?

JAN: Yes.

FRIEDA: What has he written in your book?

JAN: Here it is; you can see it. (Frieda reads.)

FRIEDA: "You have done this exercise very well."

Oh! Jan, you haven't made any mistakes at all; I have made six. How many mistakes have you made in your work, Hob?

HOB: None.

JAN: But you haven't brought your book to the class to-day. Mr. Priestley can't correct your work if you don't bring your book here.

HOB: He couldn't correct my homework even if I brought my book to class to-day.

JAN: Why not?

HOB: Because I haven't done it.

IV. With two students as the two girls, repeat the conversation of Hob's joke about the book.V. With two students as the passenger and the Irish porter, do the same with the other joke.Dictation

At Christmas I often get presents, but there is one present that I always like to get, and that is a book. It doesn't matter what kind of book it is. It can be a story book, a book of poems or a book of plays; I enjoy them all.

I get some of my books from the Public Library. There is a very good one in the town where I live and the librarian knows a lot about literature. He gives me advice about literature and helps me to get the books that I want. But I buy quite a lot of books too, particularly those that I have read before and have enjoyed. I like to have them in my home so that I can read them (or at least some of them) not only once, but time and again. I like to sit in the room where my books are, and, even if I am not reading, I like to look at the books on my shelves and to feel that I have my friends round me.

LESSON 30 (Thirtieth Lesson)

The Present Perfect Tense (2)

In Lesson 29 you have a new form of the verb, viz. the Present Perfect Tense. We form this by using have with the past participle,¹ e.g.:

He has lived in England for fifty years.

People have laughed at his plays.

He has read all the books.

I have heard of those writers.

I have seen that picture at the cinema.

He has written plays.

He has said that time and time again.

I have left my book at home.

You have done this exercise well.

He has read all the books

To form the negative we use not with have and the past participle, e.g.:

He has not ² lived in England for fifty years.

People have not laughed at his plays.

He has not read all the books.

I have not heard of those writers.

You have not done this exercise well.

You have not brought your book.

You have not done this exercise well

¹ The past participle of regular verbs has the same form as the Simple Past Tense, e.g. lived, laughed. The past participles of all the irregular verbs in this book are in the appendix on p. 236.

² In conversation we often shorten has not to hasn't and have not to haven't.

To form the interrogative we put the verb have (has) before the subject, e.g.

- Has he lived* in England for fifty years?
Have people laughed at his plays?
Has he read all the books?
Have you seen that picture at the cinema?
Has he written plays?
What has he written?
Have you all done your homework?

What has he written?

One use of this tense is to express an action in the past when the time of the action is indefinite. We use the Simple Past Tense when the time is definite, e.g.

- (a) Have you seen any of Shaw's plays?
 (Indefinite time—present perfect tense.)
 (b) Yes. I saw one last week.
 (Definite time—simple past tense.)
 (a) He has written the letter.
 (Indefinite time.)
 (b) He wrote it this morning.
 (Definite time.)
 (a) I have done the homework.
 (Indefinite time.)
 (b) I did it last night.
 (Definite time.)

I did it last night

not, ever, never

Note the place of these words (and of other such words, e.g. always, sometimes, often) in the present perfect tense. They generally come just before the past participle, e.g. (in these examples the past participles have a "box" round them):

I have not done my work.

He has read every book that I have ever heard of.

I have never heard of that book.

Jan has always liked studying English.

I have sometimes gone to Dublin by aeroplane.

Hob has often left his book at home.

QUESTION PHRASES (I)

Sometimes, particularly in conversation, we ask a question by making an affirmative statement and adding a negative "question phrase" like this:

Affirmative Statement	Negative Phrase
Mr. Priestley has a lot of books in his study	hasn't he?
You were talking about Christmas presents	weren't you?
She's got a book	hasn't she?
It is a nice morning	isn't it?
This is a pretty little town	isn't it?
You are coming with us	aren't you?
Jan and Frieda are coming with us	aren't they?
That was a good dinner	wasn't it?
Frieda is a pretty girl	isn't she?
You have some sheep on your farm	haven't you?
He has done his homework	hasn't he?
You had a lesson this morning	hadn't you?
You can speak English	can't you?

Affirmative Statement

Negative Phrase

He could tell the difference between good and bad coffee

Hob must work harder

He ought to do his homework

They will come to-morrow

You will see me next Friday

Jan plays football

Mr. Priestley often works late

The students see him every day

Jan did all the homework

Hob left his book at home

couldn't he?

mustn't he?

oughtn't he?

won't you?

doesn't he?

doesn't he?

don't they?

didn't he?

didn't he?

If the verb in the statement is one of the "special" verbs, the question phrase uses the same verb.

If the verb in the statement is not a "special" verb, then the question phrase uses do, does or did.

PRONUNCIATION DRILL (Revision)

EXERCISES

I. Make these sentences interrogative:

1. Pedro has read this book.
2. T. S. Eliot has written many poems.
3. The girls have given their friend a clock.
4. I have told you the answer to the question.
5. This writer has lived in England for a long time.
6. Pedro has seen some of his plays. (Be careful with some!
Remember page 135.)
7. Hob has left his book at home.

8. Lizzie has cooked the dinner.
9. Frieda has written a letter home.
10. Mr. Priestley has corrected Hob's homework.

II. Make the sentences in Exercise I negative.

III. Add "question phrases" to the following:

1. It's a fine day . . . ?
2. You are studying English . . . ?
3. He is a handsome man . . . ?
4. She is very well-dressed . . . ?
5. Lucille has a new car . . . ?
6. My work is right . . . ?
7. You were in England last year . . . ?
8. He can speak English . . . ?
9. You could understand me . . . ?
10. They must do the work . . . ?
11. Hob ought to come early . . . ?
12. You will write to me . . . ?
13. She can come to-morrow . . . ?
14. He gives a lesson every day . . . ?
15. You read modern writers . . . ?
16. Shaw wrote St. Joan . . . ?
17. They gave her a clock . . . ?
18. You went to the theatre . . . ?
19. I wrote to you . . . ?
20. He speaks English . . . ?

IV. Change the verbs in these sentences from Simple Past Tense into Present Perfect Tense:

1. I read the book.
2. He wrote a new book.
3. She gave her friend a clock.
4. He told me the answer to my question.
5. They went away with some friends.
6. Mr. Priestley spoke to me about you.

7. The students wrote some short stories.
8. I understood the work very well.
9. Mr. Priestley told the students about some English writers.
10. Lizzie cooked the dinner for Mr. Priestley.
11. We saw a play by Shaw.
12. Pedro gave us the tickets.
13. He went to the theatre with Frieda.
14. They went to the theatre with Frieda.
15. We spoke about the play before.
16. He spoke about the play before.
17. I spoke about the play before.
18. Hob left his book at home.
19. All the students left their books at home.
20. You did that work well.

LESSON 31 (Thirty-First Lesson)

Present Perfect Tense (3). More Difficult Examples

Scene: MR. PRIESTLEY'S STUDY.

MR. PRIESTLEY, FRIEDA, JAN, HOB, PEDRO, OLAF, LUCILLE.

MR. PRIESTLEY: Good morning! It's a nice morning, isn't it?

FRIEDA: Yes, Mr. Priestley, it is. As I came here this morning everything looked beautiful after the rain last night. I don't think that the trees have ever looked so green, or the flowers so fresh. I like listening to the sound of rain, too, especially at night.

JAN: I have often heard people at home say that the weather in England is bad; that it is always foggy or raining or cold.

HOB: Yes. I was speaking to a fellow about English weather a week or two ago. I said, "When is summer coming?" and he answered, "Oh, we have already had summer. We had it last Wednesday afternoon."

OLAF: Have you ever tried to come here by bus on a wet day? I went on one a day or two ago. The buses are always full on wet days and I have never had a seat on one yet. I'm always sorry for the conductor. His work isn't easy on a wet day.

HOB: I know a story about a bus conductor. Can I tell it, sir?

MR. PRIESTLEY: Have you finished what you were saying Olaf? . . . You have? . . . All right, Hob, tell us your story.

HOB: Well, I was on my way here in the bus one wet day, and a woman with a dog got on the bus. It was a big dog—about as big as a young horse—and its feet were very dirty. The woman said, “Oh! conductor, if I pay for my dog can he have a seat like the other passengers?” The conductor looked at the dog and then he said, “Certainly, madam. He can have a seat like all the other passengers, but, like the other passengers, he must not put his feet on it ”

MR. PRIESTLEY: Very good, Hob. You have told that story quite well.

HOB: Thank you, sir.

LUCILLE: Frieda has said she likes rain at night. Well, I don't, not when I'm driving. I drove home last night in the rain. I have driven quite a lot, but I have never driven through such rain before. I couldn't see at times where I was going.

PEDRO: How long have you had your car now, Lucille?

LUCILLE: I have had it for about a year.

PEDRO: Have you driven it much in England?

LUCILLE: Yes, I have used it nearly every day, and have done about nine to ten thousand miles.

FRIEDA: You drive very well. I have often thought that. I have never learned to drive.

HOB: I have learned to drive. I learned last week in five lessons.

LUCILLE: I have just come from a driving lesson this morning.

HOB: Haven't you finished having lessons yet?

LUCILLE: Oh, no! I have had lessons for about a year now, and they haven't finished yet. I have had sixty-five so far; there are thirty-five more to come.

HOB: What! A hundred lessons to learn to drive. I have never heard of anyone needing so many before. You must be a very bad learner, or else you must have been to a very bad teacher.

LUCILLE: Oh, no, he is a very good teacher and very nice, young and handsome and clever.

HOB: But hasn't he taught¹ you to drive yet?

LUCILLE: Oh, yes. I learned to drive in the first five lessons.

HOB: Then why? . . .

LUCILLE: Yes, it sounds funny. I could explain it, but I have done the same as Hob. I have asked Hob's friend the artist to tell the story in pictures. This is what he has drawn.

(Reproduced by permission of the Editor of "The Humorist")

LUCILLE GOES TO ASK ABOUT DRIVING LESSONS

EXERCISES

- I. Say or write three things about the weather.
- II. With one student as the conductor, and one as the woman with the dog, repeat the conversation in Hob's story.
- III. Now tell the whole story.
- IV. Tell the story of Lucille's driving lessons from the pictures on p. 229. These words or phrases will help you: a notice; an advertisement;¹ a nought² (=0); he turns the 10 into 100.

Dictation

The driver of a bus works very hard. He is out from early in the morning till late at night. Sometimes he works in beautiful weather when the sky is blue, the sun is shining, the trees look fresh and green and people feel glad to be alive. At other times it is cold or foggy, or there is such heavy rain that he can't see very well where he is going.

The conductor is on the bus, too. He has a tiring day going to the top of the bus and down again a hundred times a day to get passengers' money and give them their tickets.

LESSON 32 (Thirty-Second Lesson)

The Present Perfect Tense (4)

COMMENTS ON LESSON 31

(1) You saw in Lesson 30 that one of the uses of the Present Perfect Tense is to express an action in the past where the time is indefinite. Where the time is definite we use the Simple Past Tense.

There are a number of examples in Lesson 31 that show this use clearly,¹ e.g.

HOB: (a) I have learned to drive. (But he doesn't say when, so we use the Present Perfect Tense.)

(b) I learned last week. (Now we know definitely when he learned, so we use the Simple Past Tense.)

OLAF: (a) Have you ever tried to come here by bus on a wet day? (Indefinite.)

(b) I went on one a day or two ago. (Definite.)

LUCILLE: (a) I have driven quite a lot. (Indefinite.)

(b) I drove home last night in the rain. (Definite.)

(2) We use the Present Perfect Tense also to ¹ In the conversation in Lesson 31 there are 30 examples of the Present Perfect Tense. Can you find them all?

express an action that began in the past and continues into the present, e.g.

"I have had my car for a year" (... and I still have it).

"I have had lessons for a year now" (... and I am still having lessons).

"He has given me lessons for about a year" (... and he is still giving me lessons).

If the action does not continue into the present, but was finished in the past, we use the Simple Past Tense, e.g.

I learned to drive in the first five lessons.

(3) We use the Present Perfect Tense, generally with just, already, now, not yet, never, to express the action that is just finished: e. g.

I have just written this word on the blackboard.

Hob has just come to the lesson, five minutes late.

I have finished my breakfast now.

QUESTION PHRASES (2)

On page 222 you had examples of questions in the form of an affirmative statement and a negative "question phrase." You can also have them the other way round, i.e. with a negative statement and an affirmative question phrase, e.g.

Negative StatementAffirmative Phrase

It isn't raining now is it?

Hob isn't going to tell us another story is he?

You are not staying at home are you?

The difference between the two forms is that with the first one you expect the answer "Yes." With the second one you expect the answer "No," e.g.

"You have some sheep on your farm, haven't you?"

"Yes, we have."

"You haven't any sheep on your farm, have you?"

"No, we haven't."

Here are some further examples of this second form:

Jan and Frieda aren't coming with us, are they?

You can't speak English, can you?

That wasn't where you had dinner, was it?

You haven't read this book, have you?

Hob hasn't done his work, has he?

You couldn't tell that the coffee was bad, could you?

I mustn't do all these exercises, must I?

We oughtn't to expect a lesson on Saturday, ought we?

You won't forget to write to me, will you?

Jan doesn't play the piano, does he?

Mr. Priestley doesn't know your father, does he?

The students don't come for a lesson every day, do they?

Jan didn't get that exercise wrong, did he?
